He was out with a party of young ladies, one of whom gave him $5 to bet for her, haming the horse she desired to place her money upon. The young man went down and found the odds against this horse 50 to 1. Naturally he presumed the horse had no chance of winning. Believing that, he decided to arrange a little surprise for the young lady by keeping her money and telling her he had bought a ticket on the horse at $6 to 1. He was to surprise her after the race and after the horse had lost by returning her money. But judge of his surprise when the horse won. He was in a fix. He had told the young lady he had the ticket. She was exultant.

"I have won $250 on $5!" she exclaimed to her friends in her enthusiasm.

Well, what could the young man do but one thing? He did it. He had to add $250 to the $5 he had and present it to the young lady. But he left Saratoga that very evening, a sadder but wiser young fellow. In the future he will let women have their way.

way. Gambling seems to be taken as a matter Gambling seems to be taken as a matter of course here. Everything is given over to it. The politicians, the lawyers; the bankers and the business men are found everywhere sandwiched among the professional gamblers, dropping their money upon the gaming tables or betting it against the bookmakers. Indeed, the spirit of betting pervades the air. The very atmosphere seems to be impregnated with it. If you ask a hotel clerk a question which he answers and you give evidence of doubt of his correctness bis next words are: "Til bet you a five I'm correct."

But the best illustration of the correctness of this assertion is told on a reverend gentleman who is summering here. He met one of his flock and modestly suggested that as he appeared prosperous a donation to a charitable fund would be in order.

"Certainly," replied the gentleman, as he drew $5 from his vest pocket.
"Could you not afford something more than that?" suggested the reverend gentleman. "Not conveniently," replied the young man, "though I might, by straining a little, make it ten."

"Well, I will just match you once to see whether the donation shall be ten or nothing," quickly and apparently thoughtlessly suggested he of the cloth.

ing," quickly and apparently thoughtlessly suggested he of the cloth.

The contribution was a ten and so it goes. Men and women of every walk in life seem to be drawn into it. They seem to be hypnotized. The women in many cases are more thoroughly charged with the electricity of gambling than the men. Once a woman buys a ticket on a race and wins it seems impossible for her not to bet on every race thereafter.

I saw a prominent West Virginia lady have her husband bet $5 for her on a race last week. She won $50 on that $5 in the first race. With that she bet on every other race that day and won something over $1,000. That evening she purchased a handsome diamond ring. The remainder of her winning she has since lost. She has been to the races every afternoon since and has her accessed by the sound of every ten of the women who attend the races make little bets. Some win and some lose. Like the men, however, the vast majority of those who bet on horse races lose. Should they win they return to bot again and it all goes.

This spirit of gambling is having a very bad effect upon Saratoga. It is said that four-fifths of the professional gamblers of

But the refined pleasure seekers have ced to give Saratoga a wide berth. As at all summer resorts society here is badly mixed. The chaff and the wheat sometimes become embarrassingly inter-mingled. Still in a great resort visited by thousands it is difficult to eliminate.

However, to one who cares to see the world as it is; to see a diversity of life, it is worth visiting. You can be very quiet or hilariously gay, for there are all classes of people here.

But to turn aside from this phase of

THEY FOUGHT WITH KNIVES.

A Tragedy Growing Out of the Breckinridge Campaign.

Lexington, Ky., August 30.—A duel to death with knives occurred in Clark county, near Boonesboro, yesterday over the scandal feature of the Ashland congressional contest. John King, a Breckinridge man living in Fayette county, met on the highway his old friend, George Cook, who lives in Clark county. Cook said any woman who went to hear Breckinridge speak was no better than a courtesan. King dismounted from his horse, saying his wife and daughters had heard Breckinridge. Gook insisted it was a shame. He also dismounted. Both drew knives and blood flowed freely until Cook dropped, having three stabs in the breast. King has escaped. A Tragedy Growing Out of the Breck

Charles Stewart Wade, in the legal employ of the Rock Island railroad, but at time of the strike a reporter for a Chicago morning newspaper, was the first witness called at the morning session. Mr. Wade carefully examined switches which had been tampered with and declared, from a previous knowledge of railroading, that none but railroad employes could have so manipulated the complicated system, which was an interlocking one. Numerous instances were related of disturbances, in some of which non-union men were beaten by strikers. Names and dates were given. on the road. He testified that neither Debs nor Howard advised the men to strike. Both were out of the hall when the vote was taken. As a reason for striking, Mr. Mooney said: "Well, I struck because the rest struck. When they quit I quit." Mr. Mooney related a case where a deputy marshal was assaulted by a mob, while nearly five hundred marshals stood by and did not interfere. He also saw marshals stand by while cars were overturned and told instances where non-union men were assaulted for working by acquaintances who were railroad strikers. "Deputy Marshal Davidson," said Mr were furnished in the yards to any men disposed to be riotous and intimated that the railroad men furnished them. He himself had been threatened with violence by two men, one of whom wore an American Railway Union button, unless he left his engine. He also heard an engineer take an oath not to work in fear of having violence done to him.

W. F. Guyon, who was a reporter for the United Press during the strike, told what he saw of the destruction of railroad property. He did not think railroad employes were engaged in this work. He claimed to have been asked by either Debs or Howard to help them apprehend rioters. He had ofter heard the two heads of the American Railway Union counsel against strikes. Mr. Guyon did not believe the large roads kept a blacklist.

Howard on the Stand Again.

Vice President George W. Howard, of the American Railway Union, was recalled in rebuttal. In regard to the meeting at Blue Island, at which it was alleged by witnesses yesterday that he used abusiv witnesses yesterday that he used abusive language in regard to George M. Pullman and counseled violence, Mr. Howard admitted that he applied an obscene epithet to Mr. Pullman, but said the epithet was one in common use among railroad men. He also testified that he said he thought Pullman such a man and that he ought to be hanged, but he did not mean by this to counsel violence. He simply wanted to show his contempt for the man's methods.

He told the crowd on the occasion to beware of railroad sleuths who tried to break ware of rainroad sieuths who tried to break up lodges by arraying the Catholics in them against the Protestants, and he hoped if anybody caught any of these sleuths at their work they would "tap them on the head with the round end of a rolling pin." The witness submitted a list of questions which he wished to have put to some of the general managers. These questions related to the hauling of mail trains with Pullman cars attached. He also wanted Mr. Pullman recalled. It is improbable that the commission will have a chan'e to put his questions. "Yes. they have?"

The mayor then cited five cases in which this had been done. He said Strike Manager Eigan kept the police busy going to points on the various roads only to find when they got there that there was no trouble. He then told about his unsuccessful efforts to bring about arbitration.

William Crane, have all been arrested at Regersville, Tenn., on a charge of black-mail. The arrests were made at the instance of Dr. G. H. Morgan and the town is all torn up over the sensation.

Dr. Morgan is a prominent and wealthy person. He alleges that he has been of late much beset with attentions from Mrs. Cantrell. Recently he was summoned to the Cantrell home, ostensibly to see a sick child. He found Mrs. Cantrell alone, undressed and very demonstrative. Just at this point the husband broke into the room in a pretended rage. Since then, the doctor says, Cantrell and Crane have demanded large amounts of money as the price of his safety and their silence.

A PERMANENT SHOW IS PROPOSED

The Idea Is to Maintain Exhibits of Resources at Washington.

PLENTY OF OFFICERS ELECTED

Senator Walsh's Name Is Cheered by the Convention-Major Marks, the Florida Cracker, Is There.

Washington, August 30.-Business men from the southern states met in convention this morning at Willard's hall to devise methods for the investigation and develop-ment of southern investments and resources. One of their objects is to secure the establihment of a permanent exhibit of southern resources in Washington, with an auxiliary bureau in which the varicus be recorded with all particulars and thus establish a reliable medium between northern capital and the rich fields for develop-ment in the south. With a view of making the convention a success, many of the commercial bodies in the southern cit'es appointed delegates to represent them.

The convention was calld to order at 10:30 o'clock by Hon. Samuel Blackwell, of Alabama, the third auditor of the treasury, who, as chairman of the reception committee, made a brief opening speech. After the Rev. B. B. Bagley had prayed appropriately, Hon. John W. Ross, president of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia, delivered an address of welcome. He said that the district commissioners were much interested in the movement, and spoke of the mineral and other resources of the new south. He had often wondered why it was that the am-bitious young fellows of New England and the middle states did not seek their fortunes in the south instead of the west, with its many disadvantages. The project for a permanent exhibit of southern resources in Washington had been, he said, recently brought to the attention of the commissioners by Senator Walsh, of Geor-

Cheered Walsh's Name. The mention of Senator Walsh's name caused prolonged applause, and there was another outburst when Mr. Ross subgested that it would be better and would meet with more general approbation from congress men, to work for the exhibit in Washington of the resources of the whole country. In replying to Mr. Ross, Mr. Blackwell made reference to the report that northern commercial bodies are antagonizing the convention. "But we need just that sort of opposition," he said, "to make our project success.' Lord applause followed this sentiment. The movement, he said, was one of im-merse possibilities. It was like the immense wealth that lay hidden in the moun-tains of his native Alabama—it needed to be brought to the surface

ginia, temporary secretary. W. S. White of The Fredericksburg Free Lance, offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee consisting of one member from each southern state to be known as a committee on which shall have power to provide for the organization of a permanent association for the development of the industrial rescurces of the south. This resolution was adopted unanimously.

On motion of Mr. Yancey, of Florida, a committee on credentials, consisting of one member from each southern state and the District of Columbia, was appoint-strictly within the rules of civilized wared as follows: E. C. Campbell, Alabama; J. K. Jones, Jr., Arkansas; M. P. Couper, Florida; G. E. Thomas, Jr., Georgia; A. B. Barrett, West Virginia, and W. F. Rogers, District of

Letters of regret at not being able to attend were read from Vice President Stevenson, Secretary Herbert and others.

A letter from B. H. Warner, president of the board of trade of Washington, was interrupted by Mr. Irvine, of Alabama, who claimed that Mr. Warner's reference to "loud-mouthed populists" who were injuring the south was out of order, as was any political criticism.

The chairman promptly ruled that Mr. Irvine's point was well taken, but another delegate thought the convention had no right to suppress anything in any letter. The chairman held that political reference might cause discord, and reaffirmed

The report of the committee on credentials admitting a delegates all from the south who were present was adopted with an amendment providing that representatives of northern, eastern and western bodies to whom invitations had been ex-tended, should be admitted to the floor, but without the right to vote. delegations are as follows: Alabama. J. F. Johnston; Arkansas, W. J. Vincenk der; Florida, D. H. Yancey;

Georgia, Levi Ballard; Maryland, J. M. Carter, Jr.; Louisiana, W. H. Wise; Mis-sissippi, S. D. Lee; Missouri, D. B. Burnes; sissippi, S. D. Lee; Missouri, D. B. Burnes; North Carolina, E. A. Evert; South Caro-lina, T. S. Farrar; Tennessee, A. A. Ar-thur; Texas, E. P. Marshall; Virginia, W. B. Gray: West Virginia, J. L. Berry, and the District of Columbia, S. S. Yoder. After a committee on plan and scope had been appointed to arrange a plan for a permanent organization and the establishment of a permanent southern exhibition in Washington, the convention took a recess until 3 o'clock.

At 4 o'clock the convention met to hear papers on appropriate topics. A letter from Hamilton Disston, of Philadelphia, on the Hamilton Disston, of Philadelphia, on the development of the sugar industry in the south was read by one of the secretaries. Mr. Disston predicted that it was a question of but a short time before the south would supply the entire home demand for sugar. One of the secretaries reau a paper prepared in behalf of Georgia by Colonel Isaac W. Avery.

The next paper read was that of Captain Hugh Colquitt on Florida phosphates. Mr. L. C. Irwine, representing the Commercial Club, of Mobile, made an interesting speech on the subject of commercial organizations and how to make them successful.

The Resources of Missouri" was the subject of an address by Hon. C. H. Mansur, second comptroller of the treasury, and an ex-congressman. He told of Missouri's mineral' and farming lands and her various industries. While her from mines were rot extensive, they had sufficient cutput to cause the operation of an iron ore reduction furnace at Carondelet, near St. Louis. This industry ran three years and then closed down, because, so it was popularly believed, that eastern capitalists har bought it up to prevent the development of mines in the southwest. (Applause.)

Mr. Mansur said that if the question whether there would be slavery again was left to the people of Missouri, and the people of all the southern states, it would be voted down 20 to 1.

Major M. M. Marks, who described himself as a Florida "cracker," made the closing address of the day, which was extemporaneous. He described in glowing terms the climate and resources of his state. the late Henry Grady caused prolonged applause.

Mr. Grigsby Thomas, of Columbus, Ga., defended the south from the statements about lynchings and burnings. He said he told a Scotchman, who had questioned him about it, that he would bring over 10,000,000 negroes from the south and march them through England, and if they did not put the working classes there to shame for industry, prosperity and helping disposition he would pay the fares back to America. The trouble between the north and the south, said Mr. Thomas, was that each was ignorant of the other. The south treated the negro well if he acted well.

Mr. Thomas said he did not believe in these northern people who came south and said: "Get a move on you." He contended that the new south would never equal the greatness and the glory of the old south, and this sentiment was applauded loudly.

Dr. M. Souviglle, an ex-surgeon of the French army, residing in Chattanooga, told of the resources of Tennessee and the opportunities for investment there. When he concluded the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning.

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS MORE The Mills at New Bedford Will Remain

Closed. New Bedford, Mass., August 20.—It was stated by a well-known mill man this af-ternoon that not a mill in New Bedford would start up next week, as has been cur-rently reported. He said that he consider-ed it doubtful if the mills started up inside of a month and thought it definitely settled that no move in the direction of opening the mills would be made inside of two or three weeks at the most.

A most determined step has been taken by the card and picker room association. It seems by the starting up of the Howland, Rotch, New Bedford Manufacturing Com-pany, Columbia and Bennett mills, that about one-third of the union members are out on a strike, the majority of those working have pledged part of their earnings weekly to assist in carrying on the strike. Thus, indirectly, the managers of the mills that are running, are alding the strikers. The weavers held a mass meeting in the city hall this afternoon and voted that it was the sense of the meeting that not a weaver should go to work under the reduction or until mill managers agree to give

The feature of particular novelty will be the turn-out of women members of the weavers and cardroom unions, and if the weather is good they will come out strong. There is no change in the strike situation in this city.

Notwithstanding the failure of the railroad companies to make low rates to Washington, 70,000 people have visited the pity since the Pythian encampment began. About two-thirds of these were Pythians and their friends.

In the big parade on Tuesday the Toronto division of the uniform rank carried a British flag, and this has been one of the principal topics of comment among the Pythians from this side of the line. General Carnahan, comman chief of the uniform rank, is a stanch supporter of the action of the Canadians more loyal to its interests or which takes a more active part in its affairs. This is the fourth consecutive encampment which this particular Toronto division has attended. General Carnahan says it was perfectly proper for them to carry the Union Jack, and he holds that it would have been just as proper for the Canadians to have objected when, at the encampment in Toronto in 1886, all the divisions carried provement in Southern Business. Baltimore, Md., August 20.—Special reports to The Manufacturers' Record from all parts of the south indicate a steady im-provement in business interests. Southern merchants, who have been in Baltimore durshowing signs of more activity than at any time for several years, give the most en-couraging facts as to the abundant crops. the good financial condition of the people generally and as to the outlook for an unusually large volume of trade. While the settlement of the tariff question has helped to stimulate business throughout the entire country, the south especially is sowing signs of more activity than at any other time during the past two years. A number of important movements in railroad matters have taken place during the week, including the opening by the Atlantic Coast Line of a new route to Augusta and the far south, the purchase of the Eastern Shore railroad of Maryland by a syndicate of New Yorkers, who will consolidate this road and several steamer lines connecting it with Baltimore, and the preliminary arrangements for the building of fifty miles of electric railway between Baltimore and Gettysburg. The sale of 100,000 acres of timber land to New York lumber operators has been reported and negotiations are pending for a number of other large tracts of timber land in various parts of the south.

Among the industrial enterprises reported for the week are the enlargement and improvement of rolling mills at a cost of $80,000, an extensive tannery and large lum-bering operations by northern capitalists in Alabama. In South Carolina a company is forming to build a $150,000 cotton mill; Georgia, $50,000 waterworks, gold mines, electric plant and lumber works; North Carolina, $50,000 improvement addition to cotton mill, $100,000 vineyard company and gold mining operations. The whole business situation of the south indicates a very marked change for the better, with a heavy increase in bank clearings, gains in railroad earnings and a revival in industrial enter-

WILL CONTEST THE INCREASE. The Whisky Trust Claim That the Increased Tax Is Illegal. Peoria, Ill., August 30.-Inquiry here confirms the report that the whisky trust will contest the increase in tax on spirits in bond, on the ground of illegality. This has long been President Greenhut's idea. The argument is advanced that when the were put in bond at 90 cents per gallon there was an implied contract that the tax would not be increased on these goods while they were in bond. Considera-ble interest has been aroused in distilling circles by the filing of incorporation papers in Springfield for the New Atlas distillery of this city, whose buildings are now practically complete. The distillery will be largest in the world, and will be run outside of the trust. The company is headed by Samuel Woolner. The company has a capacity of 5,000 bushels of grain per day, and will be run at such rate as the trade

San Antonio, Tex, August 30.—It is claimed by the cattle men of southwese Texas that the new tariff bill will result in serious injury to the cattle interests of this section. The duty is reduced from $10 per head to 20 per cent ad valorem, and now that the grass is good on this side it is expected that at least 100,000 cattie will be brought into Texas from Mexico within the next sixty days, and after being fattened, marketed in this country, thus forcing down the prices. He Voted for a Contract Labor Bill When in the House, Chairman Clay Is Making Things Hum at Headquarters-Next Tuesday Will Be a Great One in the Campaign.

The democratic campaign committee has found that Judge Hines, the populist candidate for governor, who is making a strong effort to secure the votes of the ne groes of the state, has a slavery record which is even worse than that which was shown on Colonel Peck in the last cam-

This particular bill was worse, even, than that which Colonel Peek supported and which cut such a prominent figure in the last campaign. It is a bill, whose object from the caption is "for the better control of farm labor," and as is evident from the text, is aimed particularly at the negro labor in the agricultural sections of the state. The bill was introduced in the house of epresentatives on the 24th of July, 1885, by

Mr. Tarver, of Jefferson county, Judge Hines was a member of the house at that time. The record on the bill shows that on August the 10th, it was read the second time, and on the 30th of September came up for final passage.

In the passage of the bill, it was lost; but among those voting for the bill, as is shown by the record in the journal of the James K. Hines, of the county of Wash-

THE IRON TRADE.

There Is a Decided Improvement in the Tone.

Cleveland, O., August 30.—The Iron Trade Review today says: "Reports from selling centers agree that the volume of business in Iron and steel is well maintained, and In Iron and steel is well maintained, and there is a definite improvement in the tone of the market. The volume of business is undoubtedly greater than at any time in the year, and the fact that few large contracts are out and that the demand is distributed in all lines is proof of the general movement to replenish stocks. This is being done conservatively and the large aggregate has had no effect on prices. The feeling among authorities in the iron trade is, that no higher basis of values is to be seen in the immediate future. No matter is, that no higher basis of values is to be seen in the immediate future. No matter what the exact relation between foreign selling prices with the new tariff added, and those at home, the impression is widespread that consumers will get lower prices now and there is no willingness to pay an advance.

perfore many or these Mahoning and Shenaa go furnaces can make iron for the market. The price in the Pittsburg and Wheeling districts for spot delivery is still firm a. $12. Buyers and sellers are apart in their ideas as to long contracts, and the same situation obtains as to billets. Low lake situation obtains as to billets. Low lake freights have permitted Chicago to come well to the east of the line usually drawn by the competition of Pittsburg and Ohio Valley billet mills. Southern pig iron is still practically shut out of Chicago by the figures made on local iron. In the east the demand for both southern and Pennsylvania foundry irons keeps up well as prices hold firm, under an increased supply, though no advance is secured. Southern sellers in general have their views above anything they have yet realized."

The attention of women is being drawn more to the question of life insurance than ever before, and in this connection the fol-lowing from The New York Sun will be of interest. The Sun says:
"Leaving out the industrial companies which insure for small amounts, $100 or $200 or the like, there are probably twenty-five women who carry life insurance today five women who carry life insurance today to every one who carried it ten or fifteen years ago, and some of them are insured for very large amounts. They have taken out insurance as an investment, just as men take it out. The woman who carries the largest insurance on her life in the United States is Mrs. Hearst, the wife of SenaTor Hearst, of California. She is insured for about $300,000. Some of her insurance is what is called straight life insurance, but the greater part of it is placed on the enthe greater part of it is placed on the en-dowment plan—that is to say, at the end of twenty years, if she pays her premiums regularly, she can draw her money. Mrs. Hearst is said to be the first woman in the state of California who insured her life. There are today a very large number of women there who carry from $15,000 to $20,000 insurance. Two women who carry $50,000 are Mrs. Emeline Wallace and Mrs. Juana A. Neal. New York women have been rather slow to take up the matter of life insurance from the investment point of view, though there are more than 1,000, according to the insurance men, who carry as much as $25,000 or $30,000, and there are more than 10,000 who carry from $5,000 to $10,000. Of those who have larger amounts are the Misses Lorillard. Following the example of their father, who has been for years, a great patron of life insurance companies, these young ladies have themselves insured for $100,000 each. The female members of the family of Theodore A. Have-meyer, the sugar man, are also insured for upward of $100,000. Mrs. J. Sloat Fassett, the wife of ex-Senator Fassett, has her life insured for more than $100,000, and her friend, Mrs. E. B. Crocker, of Elmira, carries $150,000 insurance. Mrs. Fassett and Mrs. Crocker both patronize the endowment plan of insurance, so that they will ment plan of insurance, so that they win get their money back themselves in case they live the twenty years necessary. There are many other women who carry from $75,000 to $100,000 insurance on their lives; among them is the wife of W. J. Arkell, the editor of Judge."

brilliant and unique reception of last Friday evening given by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brewer, at their beautiful country home, Belle Haven, complimentary to their guests, the Messrs. Whitney, of Augusta, was one of the most enjoyable events of the season. The mansion was in a flood of light and was handsomely decorated. Misses Addle and Irene Brewer were tireless in their graceful attentions. Miss Brewer, tall and graceful, received in a charming costume of vellow-colored chiffon over satin, trimmed with exquisite lace and diamond ornaments while Miss Irene appeared in a lovely gown of pink sik and lace. Mr. Turner assisted in receiving in an elegant black 'satin, trimmed most elaborately with exquisite lace. Her diamonds are rarely beautiful and are set in quaint and unique designs Delightful refreshments were served.

Miss Lucy Innis, one of the most charming young ladies of Montgomery, Ala., is in the city visiting relatives on Luckie street.

Miss Carri, Dent, a charming and talent-ed young lady from Eufaula, Ala., is visit-ing Miss Mary Mitchell at 242 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Among the guests at the Sweetwater Park hotel at Lithia Springs is Mrs. C. M. S. Hallowes, of Jacksonville, the widow of the late Colonel Miller Hallowes, a distinguished officer in the Bolivian army. Colonel Hallowes was an Englishman by birth, and at an early age evinced a ten dency to military pursuits. He belonged to the best class of English society. When the revolution in South America to overthrow Spanish rule began, he tendered services to Simon Bolivar, the great South American leader—the "Washington" of South America, as he has been called. Bolivar gladly accepted his tender, and gave him a place on his staff, and during the progress of the long war he won high distinction for his courage and ability. Af-ter the struggle was ended, he returned to Florida to look after his interests there, he owning a grant of ten thousand acres of land donated to his grandfather by the British governor. It was while in Fiorida that he met and married Miss Nicoll, the present Mrs. Hallowes. On leaving Bolivar he was placed on the retired list of the army and to the day of his death drew his half pay annually. Since his death the Bolivian government has been paying his widow the same amount. Republics are not always ungrateful. Though eighty-two years of age, Mrs. Hallowes, from her manner, conversation, and elasticity, is classed among the young people at the Sweetwater Park. She is related to one of the oldest southern families, and her father, General Nicoll, was inspector general of the United States army during the revolutionary war.

Miss Willie Taylor, of Rome, Ga., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Isaac B. Pilgrim, No. 95 North Boulevard, for a few weeks. The Demorest Times gives the following account of the work of two of Atlanta's artists who took part in the northeast artists who took part in the northeast Georgia chautauqua:

"Mrs. T. H. Wingfield is a charming lady and an accomplished artist, who has done much by her sole work to make a success of this assembly. She was heard often by audiences who appreciated not only her beautiful singing, but her kind and accommodating spirit, which added so much t. our success. Mrs. Wingfield's voice is of the highest range and as sweet as a May day dream. Mr. Lucius P. Hills, the clever and versatile poet, was in constant demand, and was loudly applauded at every appearance. Mr. Hills is truly a great himorist and impersonator, as well as a fine poet, with a readiness for any occasion that is truly wonderful. His work throughout was highly appreciated, and he will always find many warm friends in Demorest. Mrs. Wingfield and Mr. Hills accompanied Miss Wuerts to Gainesville

It was a delightful entertainment Mr. Cuyler Smith gave a number of his friends last evening at the residence of his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith. The chief feature of the evening's pleasure was a thrilling contest for lovely prizes at progressive euchre. The parlors and halls offered a scene of brilliancy and merriment most regaling, while the guests held sway at the tables during the delightful rivalry for the honors of the evening. The ladies' prize, a beautiful hat pin with charming stone setting, was won by Miss Nina stone setting, was won by Miss Nina Cohen, of Augusta, and the gentlemen's prize, a pretty silver-handled pen knife, was won by Mr. Mays, of this city. Delicious refreshments were served an hours passed most pleasantly for all.

Large Attendance at Sheepshead Bay

and Good Racing. Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., August 30 .- Not withstanding the fact that there had been many withdrawals here today the programme was an attractive one. The attend ance was very large and the betting lively. There were two stake races down for decision, the Reaper stakes for three-year-olds, and the Sapphire stakes for two-year-olds. The former was won by Dorlan, who galloped to the front a short distance from stake race was captured by Dolabra, who defeated Urania by half a length after a superb race. The stellar attraction of the day was the Ocean handicap, the second race of the autumn handicap at a mile. In this event, Domino gave twelve pounds and a beating to Ducat. The race was a grand one. Ducat held the lead until the stretch was reached, when Taral drove Domino up to Ducat. The instant he was on even terms with Ducat he put his aside and rode with hands and heels the rest of the journey, Domino winning amid thunders of applause by a neck. First race, for two-year-olds, futurity

ATLANTA, GA., August 31, 1894.

Not a Democratic Speech.

Our understanding is that Congressman Turner's speech in Decatur was delivered for the purpose of helping forward the cause of democracy in this state, but the result would be to throw a wet blanket on the campaign if Mr. Atkinson had not already discounted Mr Turner's position by his own firm stand for free coinage at once.

The position taken by Mr. Atkinson, the democratic candidate for governor, and that taken by Mr. Turner are as antagonistic as if those gentlemen were the champions of two antagonistic parties. And yet Colonel Atkinson stands squarely on the platform on which he was nominated, accepts its doctrines without reservation, and represents in his financial views, which are clearly and vigorously set forth, the rank and file of the democratic party.

The question arises-and it is a very important one-why should Congress man Turner at this juncture undertake to traverse the position taken by the democratic candidate-a position that is in strict accord with the declaration of the platform and the desire of the people? Why should any democrat select this season and this state as the proper time and place to inaugurate a goldbug propaganda?

We referred yesterday to some of the arguments and statements made by Mr. Turner in regard to the silver question, taking them up one by one as they appeared in the synopsis of his speech printed in The Constitution. A few remain to be considered-among others his statement that the 16 to 1 dollar is a dishonest dollar, and his refusal to vote for it a year ago. Nevertheless, he voted for a 20 to 1 dollar, which he says is also a dishonest dollar. He voted for the 20 to 1 dishonest dollar in order, as he says, to show his friendliness to bimetallism, but it could have been shown more clearly and unmistakably by a vote for the 16 to 1 dollar, which has been a debt-paying coin since the republic had money of its own.

"An inferior dollar," says Mr. Turner, "injures the poor." This is measurably true, but the statement is not in the nature of an axiom. The people of this country had what Mr. Turner would call inferior money from the day that gold went to a premium in the sixties to the day that specie payments were resumed in 1879. And yet, in spite of this fact, the people were prosperous and contented. There was an abundance of currency in circulation, prices were at a just level, wages were good, business was brisk, and the development of the country went forward rapidly until the demonetization of silver in 1873, and the corresponding increase in gold values ushered in a period of panic and disaster from which the country found no relief until the Bland-Allison act began to add $2,000,000 a month to the existing volume of standard money. John Sherman is not much of an authority or any subject where truth is a desirable element, but he is on record as saying that but for the coinage of silver dollars, he would have found it difficult to resume specie payments.

All history and all human experience show that "inferior money" does not work so much injustice to the people as money that is constantly increasing in value and in pu.chasing power. Depreciated money for the products of labor is not nearly so rulnous as depreciated and depreciating prices for the same products. The farmthe workingmen-the producers of the country-have no stock of ready money on hand, and the result is that they are compelled to pay their debts with the products of their labor. In other words, they take their products to market for the purpose of buying money with which to pay their debts. Now, the cheaper their products arepr, to put it another way, the dearer the money is—the more they have to give to procure the sum necessary to pay

As every one of Mr. Turner's arguments is in behalf of the money lender, we take it for granted that he cares othing for the interests of debtors, and yet where there is one creditor there are five thousand debtors. We do not allua; to current obligations that are to current obligations that are settled from week to week and from month to month, but to debts that run over long periods of time. The whole nation is a debtor to England and Europe. Every railroad in the country, with one exception, is under the shadow state, county and municipality in the whole country has a bonded debt to sustain on which ft is paying interest. And in addition to this there is the debt that every citizen and property owner owes his state, county and municipality in Statisticians estimate that the total debts in the United States, national, municipal, corporate and private, amount to about forty thousand millions of dollars. The mind can hardly grasp the terrific importance of these figures. At 6 per cent, the in-terest on these debts amounts to two thousand four hundred mutions of dollars. The total money supply of the country is only one thouand six hundred millions. It will thus be seen by every candid man that the debtor question is one of vast importance to the whole country. The great bulk of this interest money goes to the east, which is the stronghold of goldbuggery.

How any man who is at once fairminded and patriotic can stand up and oppose the partial relief which the people of the country will receive from the enlargement of the volume of standard money by means of the free coinage of silver, we cannot for the life of us understand. Nor can we understand how any man of reasonable intelligence can call that money "honest" which by increasing in value has doubled the value of all debts by depreciating the value of all property and the prices of the products of human labor.

Mr. Turner's argument that England should dictate our financial policy because she buys our cotton and wheat is in the nature of moonshine. No matter what kind of currency we have our producers are paid for their products in that currency. Our farmers are paid for their cotton and wheat before a bale or a bushel is exported. Ninetysix per cent of the whole business of this country is domestic business. Four per cent is foreign business. Shall we have a currency to fit the 4 per cent, or shall we have a currency suited to the 96 per cent?

Mr. Turner says that we should take our place with the highest and noblest nations of the earth and challenge the highest prices for our products. This we have done. We have taken our places and we have challenged. The result is that the people are receiving lower prices for their products than ever before, and lower wages for their labor than ever before. Everything has shrunk except the value of money, debts and taxes. We have the British gold standard, and with it we must accept British low wages and British depreciation of prices and products.

Mr. Turner's appeal is an appeal for the single gold standard; and against that standard the democratic party in nation and state is absolutely and unalterably pledged.

We are justified in saying, therefore that the speech defivered by Mr. Tur ner at Decatur is not a democratic speech. It is an attack on the Chicago platform, an attack on the state plat form.

If Mr. Turner is speaking under the auspices of the state executive committee, he should be called down. The committee cannot afford to be held responsible for speeches that are not democratic. It cannot afford to have the party and its candidates so seriously handicapped at this time. His Decatus speech is a direct attack on the position of Hon. W. Y. Atkinson, the democratic candidate for governor, an attack on the position of every democratic candidate for congress and an attack on the finanpledges of the national and state platforms.

Not the First Work of Monopoly.

We clip the following from an editorial in Harper's Weekly on the tariff: The tariff question is at rest for the mo-ment, and there will probably be no further agitation of it during Mr. Cleveland's adagitation of it during Mr. Cleveland's administration. On other questions the drift of events must settle the attitude of parties. This much, however, is certain, that for the first time in the history of the country a single monopoly, audacious, insolent and confessedely corrupt, has succeeded in dictating to congress a law affecting the general welfare the fecting the general welfare, the revenue the government and the tariff policy of the country. And for this consummation the lemocratic party is responsible.

This indictment against the democratic party is not founded on fact, and it cannot be sustained, for whatever failure there might have been to redeem the tariff pledge of the party, the party is not responsible. An overwhelming majority of democrats in both branches of congress were in favor of reducing the tariff to a revenue basis as pledged. A few bolters, assisted by the solid republican vote, stood in the way and forced the party to take the best that it could get. The settlement thus brought about reduces the infamous McKinley tariff 30 per cent, establishes an income tax, and takes a long step in the direction of genuine tariff reform.

Harper's Weekly is also wrong in the statement that this is "the first time in the history of the country that a single monopoly, audacious, insolent and confessedly corrupt, has succeeded in dictating to congress," etc.

A monopoly more dangerous than the trusts which forced the tariff settlement took congress by the throat in the extra session last year, and with the lash of English dictation whipped it into acceptance of the single gold standard. One of the loudest shouters in the country at the consummation of this outrage was Harper's Weekly, the organ of the mugwump gang which, in combination with the republicans, forced this infamous settlement, in the same manner that the tariff was disposed of, except that in the tariff there was a marked change for the better, while with the financial question the democratic attitude was swapped in toto for that of the republicans. It comes in exceedingly bad taste for a paper which led this traitorous procession last year to be charging the democrats with bad faith on the tariff. Thank God, the democratic party is not responsible for the repudiation of either the financial or the tariff pledge of the democratic platform. On each of these questions the almost unbroken democratic membership in both senate and house stood like a solid wall, bather the samplestion formed. of heavy mortgages. Every enterprise and house stood like a solid wall, bat-in the country of any moment is doing thing against the combination formed; business on borrowed capital. The democratic party stands today where it has always stood, fighting for the people's money—"the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal"-for a return to the conditions as they existed prior to the demonetization of silver in 1873against trusts and monopolies, and for tariff for revenue only. There were traitors on the financial question-merely a handful-just as there were traitors in the settlement of the tariff question. The principles for which the party contended against these traitors live today, and will yet be vindiented; the process of weeding out the traitors is now going on.

Another Platform Victim.

A correspondent at Anniston, Ala. writes as follows under date of August

Editor Constitution.-In mentioning th who have recently been made "to walk the plank" for their hostile attitude towards silver you have called attention to Breck-inridge, of Arkansas; Stone, of Kentscky; Kilgore, of Texas, and others, but, strange to say, you have omitted to name I Turpin, of the ninth district of Alab Turpin, of the ninth district of Alabama. Mr. Turpin voted to repeal the purchasing clause in the Sherman bill, and was one of the very few congressmen from the south who voted to sustain Mr. Cleveland in his veto of the seigniorage bill. The county conventions have all been held and admitted that he has been defeated by Underwood, of Birmingham, an and out silver man, at the ratio of 16 to 1 PLATFORM DEMOCRAT.

We thank our correspondent for calling attention to the fact that the democrats of the ninth Alabama district have vindicated democratic doctrine by setting aside a congréssman who voted contrary to the pledge of the Chicago platform and contrary to democratic principles. The people will vindicate themselves after awhile. The financial issue is up for settlement, and the people will settle it to their own satisfaction and in their own way when they get their forces well in hand.

The South Versus the Northwest. There is a notable article in a recent issue of The Emigrant, of New York on the superior advantages of the south as compared with the great northwest in the matter of immigration. In this article climatic conditions-one of the most important points to be considered by people who contemplate a change from one section to another-are considered and set forth at length in tabulated form, and in this respect the south has a most favorable record.

The article goes on to state that of the mass of educated and well-read peo ple of the north a very small percent age have any idea of the climatic conditions of the south, other than that commonly related to the countries directly on the equatorial line. The case is clearly stated in the following extract:

In the minds of those people of the north who for any reason may contemplate a change from one farming section to another, to cross Mason and Dixon's line is to land n a tropical country which, while possess ing many advantages in the way of rapid growth of vegetation, good markets, easily ccessible, etc., still possesses a climate si torrid as to produce enervation at any pe riod of the year, to say nothing of other ills following in its train.

So thoroughly imbued with this idea is the mind of the northern farmer that to every letter of inquiry from abroad respecting th desirability of locations in this country adapted to farming purposes, he makes but one reply, and that is to the effect that there is a line dividing this country in two sections. North of this line agricultural pursuits are carried on for the most part remote from large cities, on stretches of lands called prairies, acros

The article then shows the superior advantages of the south in the matter of climate, etc., over the sections above referred to, and for the benefit of in tending immigrants the following mereorological observation chart is given from observations made simultaneously in both countries:

The Emigrant, commenting on the result of these observations, says that the summer in the south-long held up as a menace to the physical comfort of man, loses its formidable aspect when viewed in the calm light of scientific research, and adds:

At Atlanta, Ga., the mean temperature for July was 72.6 degrees, while eight signal stations in Germany recorded a much higher temperature for the corresponding period.

From this it will readily be perceived that the south possesses climatic advantages to German immigrants unequated by any other section of the United States, and as for its soil we need but to repeat the old saying, "Tickle it with a hoe and it will smile with a harvest."

Vegetation there is spontaneous and luxuriant, offering no comparison with that of the northwest, which requires the aid of expensive machinery and multitudinous hands to bring it to a successful state of cultivation.

The Emigrant has done a good work for the south in the article from which we quote. Too little attention has heretofore been paid to the climate of the south—one among its greatest attrac-tions. One of the most prolific and easily cultivated sections, it is also the healthiest—and is, as shown in the extracts given, free from those cyclonic inwhich threaten life and wreck property. The south is, by long odds, the best dd for the immigrant.

Chairman Ellis, of the city executive committee, has issued a call for a meet, ing of the committee on Saturday night at 8 o'clock, at the courthouse, for the purpose of acting on the suggestion to consolidate the elections of the 28th of September and the 3d of October, so that, instead of having two elections in less than a week, both can be held on the same day. As the state election, which occurs on the 3d of October, is fixed by law and cannot be changed, it will, of course, be necessary, if consolidation is deemed advisable, change the date of the city election to October 3d. This can be very easily done without causing inconvenience or annoyance to anybody, and at the same time to the great advantage of the public. There is every reason in favor of the change, and none against it.

Since considerably more than a majority of the members of the committee have already signed the request for a change, it seems that there is no doubt that it will be ordered by the committee and now, since the county commission ers have fixed October 3d for the day on which to vote on the jail bond question, it seems absolutely imperative that this day be agreed upon as the one for the election of city officers, in order that there may be no doubt about a full vote.

The consolidation of the elections will enable the vofers of the city to dispose of their election matters on one day, and will prevent them from being subjected to the annoyance that will necessarily follow from two elections in one week The consolidation will also have the effect of bringing out a more representative vote of the people, an advantage which everybody must admit.

It has been argued by some that two ballot boxes at a precinct will create confusion. A voter who has not sense enough to go to a polling place and de posit his city and state vote in different ballot boxes, clearly indicated for he reception of such votes, should not be allowed the right of suffrage. The two ballot boxes will be under separate management, and there will be no more connection between them than if one election was held on September 28th and the other on October 3d. The state and county box will be open to every qualified voter of the county, and the city box only to those who are qualified to vote under the regulations of the city executive committee. There can be no possible confusion under this method.

The people are to be congratulated that the city committee has taken this matter in hand, and that more than enough of its members have signified their desire for the change to secure it

For a New Jall.

It is with pleasure that we note the fact that the county commissioners have submitted again to the people the ques tion of voting a bond issue of $150,000 for the erection of a new jail, and the 3d day of October has been fixed for the day of the vote. We believe that with a full vote there will be no doubt whatever of the authorization of the issue, particularly since the question is not now encum bered with other propositions. There has never been a time during the past five years when the question of a bond issue for the erection of a new ini would not have carried, if submitted as an independent proposition. Now that this has been done, and the people are to be given an opportunity of saying whether of not they will authorize the erection of a new jail or whether they propose to continue the present miserable man trap now used as a jail, it will be seen that there is now but one side to the question.

Grand jury after grand jury has called the attention of the people to the deplorable condition of the present jail, and has emphasized the importance of a change. The people are thoroughly impressed with the fact that the jail building is not only entirely inadequate, but that the building, from a sanitary point of view, is a black hole, which the community should not tolerate a moment longer than is necessary to supplant it with suitable quarters for the county's criminals.

We are glad, therefore, that the coun ty commission has agreed to submit this matter to the people, and we believe that the vote in favor of the bond issue will be practically unanimous

It is a matter of regret that there should be a conflict between the railroads and the cotton compresses of the south, and it is to be hoped that the question at issue will be settled amicably and without a resort either to the railroad commission or to the courts The Georgia railroad commission will take the matter under consideration next week, though it would be a matter of general congratulation if it could be arranged before then, and if the untime ly war between the railroads and the compresses could be brought to an end. Atlanta is very much interested in this question, for it compresses thousands of bales annually which are routed here for that purpose. It is possible that in the conflict between the compresses and the railroads we may lose a large part of this business.

It seems to us that as business men the representatives of both sides of the question could meet on a business basis and arrive at a satisfactory conclusion without resorting to an appeal to any tribunal for settlement. The railroads have for years been paying the com presses 10 cents a hundred pounds for compressing. They have now reduced this rate to 7 cents, which the compress men say barely pays expenses, leaving an unprofitable investment for the hun dreds of thousands of dollars which have been put in compress plants in the south. In Atlanta alone nearly $500,000 has been invested in compress plants, and those who are interested say they are ready to demonstrate by their books the fact that the seven-cent rate will not allow them a dollar's return on their in restment. If this is true, the railroads should not make such a low rate.

given, free from those cyclonic in-fluences that prevail elsewhere, and can be brought to a successful conclusion, and we think that the railroads should give their careful consideration and co-operation to anything looking to a settlement which would be satisfactory to both sides.

It is with great pleasure that we repro duce the following notice of Jim Howell from The Chattanooga Times. We person-ally know that everything the paper says about him is true. He is a Georgia boy, about him is true. He is a Georgia boy, having spent his early life at Marletta. The Times, noticing his nomination and commending him for re-election, says:

"The nomination of Mr. J.C. Howell by the democrats of the seventh ward last night was a fitting recognition of Howell's splendid services in the board of mayor and aldermen the past two years. In this case it is a clear record of the office seeking the man. If the republicans who have been aldermen the past two years. In this case It is a clear record of the office seeking the man. If the republicans who have been clamoring so loud for purity in politics want to show their sincerity, let them decline to nominate a man against Mr. Howell. He is by all odds the most suitable man the ward could send to the board. His experience of two years will be of great value in steering the city clear of the dangers that will beset its finances during the coming year. Mr. Howell has been one of the most influential factors in the board in bringing about the many reforms in the city government—especially in the fire department—that have characterized the action of the board during the past year."

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

The Americus Times-Recorder says editorially of Mr. Turner's Decatur speech:

"Some time ago when The Times-Recorder incidentally remarked that Hon. Henry G. Turner was a goldbug The Thomasville Times-Enterprise became very indignant and claimed that Mr. Turner was as good a 'silver democrat as anybody.' Whatever doubt might have existed as to Mr. Turner's views seems to have been disnelled by his views seems to have been disnelled by his views seems to have been dispelled by his speech at Decatur on Tuesday, where he devoted over an hour to defending the beauties of the gold standard. Editor Triplett will now proceed to flop over to Sherman bimetallism as preached Apostle Turner."

The Augusta Chronicle commenting on the wild claims which are being made by cer-

"We would state for the edification of the public that the democrats of the tenth dispublic that the democrats of the tenth district neither practically, impractically, nor in any other way, concede that Mr. Watson will be elected. On the contrary, they intend to beat Mr. Watson so thoroughly and convincingly this time that he will not again disturb the politics of the district. They beat him two years ago when Mr. Watson had greater reason than now to expect election, and when Major Black had stronger reasons to fear defeat. Now, there is nothing in which Mr. Watson has gained strength, while Major Black will prove much stronger than two years ago. The democrats of this district are growing more confident every week, and every contest between democracy and populism brings renewed disoppointment to the third party leaders."

Speaking of Judge Crisp's arrival in Americus, The Times-Recorder, of that city, says:

city, says:

"Speaker Crisp expressed himself as delighted to be at home again after his long absence, and the interim spent at his home here before the convening of the next session will prepare him to again assume his arduous duties in the house. Judge Crisp will remain in Americus until September ith, when he will go to Atlanta in response to a pressing invitation to speak at the grand democratic rally there on that day. His other engagements beyond this date are not yet known."

The Griffin Morning Call has this comment on the letter of acceptance of Mr. S. C. McCandless as the candidate of the third party for the state senate:

party for the state senate:

"The nominee enters the race evidently with no hope of success, but merely as the sacrifictal lamb, and expresses the fear that he will not be as well esteemed by even his political friends and supporters after the campaign is over as at present. There is no room or need of a third party in Georgia, and their platform will be repudiated in every county in the state before the year closes, and McCandless will make as suitable an offering as the populists could muster."

Says The Campbell County News:
"It is rumored that Mr. Robert Todd populist candidate for congress, will challenge Colonel Livingston for a joint debate. If he should do so there will be lively times as there is no doubt about Colonel Livingston's accepting the challenge."

The Augusta Chronicle says of Major

Black:
"Major Black soon expects to address people in the counties in the district. that the hero of the great fight of '92' home the democrats of the tenth are lant and are going to work to make coming election a more decisive vithan the last, thus forever snowing u pee-weelsm in its hot bed."

Mr. L. P. Barnes, who recently edited a third party paper in Dalton and who has assumed control of The Douglasville New South, has a lively salutatory in his first issue. In it he says:

South, has a lively salutatory in his first issue. In it he says:

'There are no state issues in Georgia, yet for three years Watson has kept the state at a white heat of passion, arraying brother against brother, father against son and son against father. What good has be done! Is there one measure that he has put into law to help the farmer, the mechanic or the laborer? If he was elected to the governor-ship tomorrow what could he do in Georgia except to keep up strife and disrupt a once happy and united people? His articles and speeches raise suspicion in the minds of the people, deluding them with the idea that all public men are designing knaves, and that the merchanits have grown immensely rich off of the poor farmer. If third partyism in Georgia means to put all power in one man and elect him to congress, while the wool hat boys do nothing but yote, we are mot in it. But we are going to raise the ourtain, turn on the lights and let the people see whither we are drifting. It is said that it takes a pup nine days we get its eyes onen. How long will it take the average Watsonite?"

All who have traveled over the state unite in saying that the outlook for a bounteous harvest was never more satisfactory. Unfortunately, however, the Georgia farmers do not yet appreciate the hay crop to the extent they ought. A Plea for Old Names.

Editor Constitution—I have been a resident of Pryor street for quite a number of years, and my business location is og Pryor street. I regret to see it is proposed to change the name of this street, to which we are all so accustomed, to some high sounding name which I do not think as appropriate as the old one. The street no doubt was named for some good old citizen who has long since gone to his long home. Possibly in life he gave property to the street or gave the street itself. Names do not count for much; let us go slow in changing old names to new.

I hope the council will not make a change of these old familiar street names to new ones, which in many ways will cause great inconvenience. I think it bad policy to do so. As before stated, I am a resident of Pryor street, and I enter my humble protest against its change. I do not belis, the city council will make it.

RAINES REPENTS.

RIG DEMAND MADE FOR SPACE SEVERAL SYMPATHIZERS SIGNED A BOND

It Was World Want That Worked Against His True Worth-Willingly Won to Better Ways.

Stortly after noon yesterday Tom Raines the young boy who has been under arrest with the burglary of Ma Kalser's jewelry store, was re-leased on bond and is now where he will have every chance to lead the proper life of honesty. In the future he will be free from the pangs of hunger and no longer beset by the potent temptations that often stare in the face the homeless night wanderer.

It was through the interest taken in his case by several gentlemen, Mr. W. Woods White among the number, that the boy's

He is a young boy who is imbued with the spirit of right and honesty, but whom misfortune and misery drove to a desperate deed. With no near relatives to watch over him and teach him the difference between him and teach him the difference between good and evil and right and wrong, he soon found himself drifting to the bad. It was easy to float down stream, especially where struggles seemed to be of no avail. For a long time, though, he had nowhere to stay, and more than one night slept in the most convenient wagon yard. Raines tried to be manly and honest, but help fall-ed to come. He saw upon all sides men and ed to come. He saw upon all sides men and boys who prospered through means that were dishonest, while he remained starv-

Ing and penniless.

Perhaps his own story is best:

"It was during the day," said he, "that I passed by the Kimball house and saw a diamond in the window near the glass, and there were a saw and the there was a roll of greenbacks near it. I had nothing to do, could get nothing to do, and all that afternoon I thought about the diamond and the money. Everywhere I went that diamond and the greenbacks seemed to stand before me and I determined to get them. It looked easy to get a brick, break the glass, grab the diamond and the money and run away. Then, after awhile I thought that I could use the money to get a start and become something after all.

"So, when night came on I went to a wa "So, when night came on I went to a wagon yard and lay down under a wagon. I

That is the story as told by the boy. He did not attempt to deny the charge of theft, but confessed at once. His youth, coupled with his manly appearance, won him many sympathizers and several gentlemen deter-mined to give him a chance to become an honorable and upright citizen. Yesterday forenoon the boy was taken to the sheriff's office, where he soon attract-ed the kind attention of big-hearted Mike ed the kind attention of big-hearted lanke Blount. As soon as Deputy Sheriff Blount found that the youngster had had nothing to eat for dinner, and very little for break-fast, he telephoned a restaurant and order-ed a veritable feast, which Raines ate in a 'ashion most vigorous.' Later his bond was signed and he was taken away to a better life, parhaps rescued through the early at-tention his own misdemeanor called to him. Had the theft been deferred a couple of years he might have been past reformation.

As it is there is every hope of making a law-abiding man of what was once a homeless street arab.

A JOINT DEBATE.

Will Take Place Tonight at the Hall of the Y. M. C. A.

There will be a very interesting and en-tertaining debate tonight at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The two opposing factions in the discussion will be members of the Saturday Night Club and of the Industrial Union. There has been talk of a joint debate between the two organizations for a long time and now that one has been arranged a warm debate may be expected.

The subject that has been selected for this debate is "Resolved, That the federal government should assume ownership of the railway lines." There will be three speakers on either side of this question. The Saturday Night Club will be repre sented in this debate by Messrs. W. W. Davies, James W. Austin and W. H. Terrell, while the Industrial Union will present Messrs. John Humphries, J. D. Wells and Captain Dave Vining. The first mentioned gentlemen will espouse the affirma-tive side of the question, while the last named will, of course, champion the negative's cause.

The speakers in this debate are among the best who are members of the opposing organizations and it is safe to say that the debate will amply repay a visit to the Young Men's Christian Association rooms tonight. The public is cordially invited to attend the debate.

John Carr Sent to Jail After Four Days in the Station House.

FACE TO FACE WITH HIS BROTHER ALEC

Bailey and the Carr Brothers Placed in the Same Cell, Where They Will Re-main Until Their Trial.

Until the grand climax when the trial comes on, the last scene in the terrible tragedy of today week was enacted yesterday morning when John Carr, the brother of I'ing's murderer, was given a stone cell in Fulton county jail.

Securely handcuffed and heavily guarded he walked in. The iron door swung open, and in a corridor filled with promenading prisoners, he came face to face with his brother Alec for the first time since the fateful Friday last week. The scowl on Alec's countenance disappeared for a moment as he caught hold of his brother's hand. "John, I'm mighty sorry I got you into

"It's pretty bad, Alec, but don't you bother about me. I'm all right, and I be lieve I can show it. How are you getting along?" "Oh, I'm all right, too, but this is a mighty bad place to be in."

About this time Bailey, who was in the cell, walked out and joined them. The three men entered the cell and for some time were engaged in earnest conversation. John Carr bad been confined in the sta-tion house since Sunday afternoon, when he was arrested upon a warrant charging him with being accessory to the murder of Captain O. H. King. During nis confinement at the station house he slept most of the time, and except upon one occasion, remained as silent as a sphinx. His statement in regard to the killing and the part he played was repeated yesterday.

"I have no connection with the crime," he said. "King and I had had differences, but these I had correct to the court for but these I had carried to the court for adjustment. I had no harsh feeling against him, and went about getting the money he nim, and went about getting the money he owed me for working up there in Villa Rica in the most peaceable way. I didn't know that Alec had any bad intention against him, and if I had been with him at the time of the shooting all the trouble would have not been made. You know I was with Mr. Bowen, on Whitehall street, when I heard the shots fired. I can prove, I believe, that what I say about it is so." John Carr is decidely the most cheerful of the trio; at least his manner is not so deeply despondent as that of the other two. Alec keeps himself in his cell most of the time, coming out only for water and a lit-tle exercise in the afternoon. He has the appearance of brooding continually over the affair and seldom speaks to any of the prisoners about him. Bailey, too, seems de-here," said one of his fellow prisoners yes-terday afternoon. "Every time the ladies have services here he goes off and cries." Alec Carr and Bailey still say that King had a pistol and fired the first shot. They deny, too, that the thing was premeditated, and claim that the meeting with King at the office of the Chattahoochee Brick Com-

The regular charge allowed for the issuing and serving of a dispossessory warrant is $3. for Mr. Woodside's work has been very sharp, and Judge Landrum made a spe-cially low rate for these warrants when taken out by Mr. Woodside. This rate was $1.25, of which amount Judge Landrum received 50 cents for issuing the warrant, and Mr. Martin received 75 cents for serv-

This worked very satisfactorily for all parties concerned until a few weeks ago, when the justices of the peace held a con-vention. At this convention all the justices of the peace resolved not to do any of this kind of business for less than the regular legal rates. Judge Landrum informed Mr. Woodside that he would have to pay full price for his warrants from that tin ward. Mr. Woodslae said that he would no do this. He went further and said that before he would pay full price for his war-rants he would take all of his business to some of the justices of the peace who have meir offices outside of the city.

Mr. Woodside then took his business in the justice of the peace line to Judge Walker, of the Peachfree district, and as he liked Bailiff Martin's work, he had that individual to serve the papers. This went on for some time, but at last Judge Landrum became aware of the fact and he straightway fired the offending bailiff.

TWO LAWYERS FIGHT

They Had a Little Disagreement About

Two Clients. A REMARK MADE IN POLICE COURT

Led to the Fight, Which Occurred in the Hallway at Justice Landrum's Court Yesterday.

The hallway leading to Judge Landrum's courtroom was the scene of a lively encounter between two lawyers yesterday

About 3 o'clock Judge Landrum was en gaged in trying a little civil suit, when suddenly he and the witnesses and others in the courtroom were startled by the sounds of a scuffle in the hallway. All hands rushed out and found Dr. L. I. Woolf and Mr. Morris Macks indulging inthe exciting pastime of pummeling each other with umbrellas. The two men were separated as soon as possible and it was found that two umbrellas had been completely ruined and that Mr. Macks's ear was marked by a blow from an umbrella. Otherwise there was no damage to speak of.

The fight grew out of a remark made in the recorder's court during the early part of the afternoon by Dr. Woolf. It seems that two of the leading members of the demi-monde had been arrested for some offense and been up to engage Dr. Woolf as their counsel. The doctor was out at the time, so they engaged Mr. Macks instead. Later they engaged Dr. Woolf. When the cases against the women were called yesterday afternoon by the recorder Dr. Woolf defended one of the women, while Mr. Macks defended the other. Dr. Woolf remarked to the recorder that Mr. Macks had taken one of his clients from

A few minutes after leaving the recorder's courtroom the two men met in the hallway just outside of Judge Landrum's courtroom. Both men have offices in this hallway. for a short time things were very lively. The fighters were separated by the on-lookers and it was found that no consider-able damage had been done on either side. Both men tell substantially the same story about the encounter and the causes which led to it. Mr. Macks said that he intended to have Dr. Woolf arrested for assault and battery but had not done so up to 6 o'clock last night. There may be interesting developments in the case today.

NEW YORK. August 30.—During the first hour of business at the stock exchange today, prices were further depressed, owing to realizing sales and manipulation by the bears and sold-out bulls. Bulls on the stock claimed that still higher prices will be made for it, as well as the shares of the other southern roads, for the reason that the prospects for increased business activity are brighter in the south than in any other section of the country. At the close recent sellers of the Grangers were not so confident of their position. Sugar, after its early decline, rose to 107%, but on the execution of stop orders there was a break of 106. An advance of 2½ per cent quickly followed, but just previous to its close there was a drop to 106%. The sellers of the stock were industriously circulating a report that the company would not be benefited as much by the new tariff law as common rumor had it. They also started a story that the sugar schedule had been so carelessly drawn that there had been so carelessly drawn that there would be severe competition from foreign refirers. In a word strenuous efforts were made to create a feeling of nervousness and uncertainty. The object of this need not be stated here. Lead, Chicago Gas, Whisky, Cotton Oil and General Electric were wesk, early in the day, but closed firm. To-bacco fell 1½ to 101 and rose to 104. In the inactive issues, Manhattan rose 1¼ to 118½, Lead preferred 1½ to 90 and Pittsburg, Cin-cinrati, Chicago and St. Louis preferred 1½ to 49. The market except for Sugar closed firm. Net changes show advances of 1/4 to 1/4 per cent, Louisville and Nashville leading. Rock Island, St. Paul and Omaha and New York Central lost 1/6/14, and Su-

Wednesday's Market Review.

Dow, Jones News Company, by private wire to J. C. Knox, manager.-Mr. White was credited with making a 2 point turn in Sugar during the day. He was supposed to have sold heavily in the morning and to have bought in the afternoon.

An insider in Sugar said: "Today's decline has not been due to news. There is no news to affect Sugar at present. The price fell on the fact that a large block of stock has been marketed within a short time and its weight proved too much for the price. Sugar has had a large rise and a considersugar has had a large rise and a considerable reaction was due. I do not think it is being sold in anticipation of congress. That is too far away. If Sugar maintains its ordinary activity one price will have two or three swings before the first Monday in December. I think Sugar will do to buy after it gets below 105."

Early Morning Review.

The Iron Trade.

The Iron Trade.

From The Philadelphia Press.

The condition of the iron and steel trade is still somewhat uncertain, but there is continued improvement in the demand. Not that business has assumed larger proportions, but there is more doing than at any time for a year past, and this feature gives some confirmation to the hopes of those who have been predicting a better market. Prices refuse to advance, however, and in some specialties there is decided weakness. Bessemer and billets are both very strong, not because of any special increase in the demand, but because the output is limited on account of coke scarcity, which they say is due to a serious shortage of water. If this statement is correct it is open to question whether the price of steel can be maintained, and as consumers are unwilling to renew contracts at current prices it looks as though values are not on, a strictly legitimate basis. Nevertheless, there is a considerable shortage in these specialties, and with a full average output it will take time to fill up empty spaces. Prices, therefore, are not likely to recede very much in the near future, but it is believed they will have to find a lower level before consumers will take hold with much freedom.

The Rothschilds Buying American Securities. A Philadelphia special to the Foreign and Domestic News Co. says: "The report that the Rothschilds have been recent buyers of Reading stock and bonds has been partly confirmed. In this connection it is asserted that they and the Vanderbilts have a scheme to secure control of all the anthracite roads. It is also said that the Rothschilds are the second largest holders of the securities of the new Southern Railway Company."

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, August 30.—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Daily Cotton Letter: At the opening of the market this morning there was little disposition to sell prices off, as the jone of Liverpool was better than anticipated, and the trade were not anxious to anticipate a further decline today, as the market will be closed on Saturday and Monday. The heavy movement at Houston and Galveston, however, had the effect of changing their opinion momentarily and prices sold off until October touched the lowest of the season. From that point there was a sharp recovery of 5 points at noon upon the receipt of complaints from the cotton belt, reporting damage by the recent rains as more serious than had been anticipated. During the afternoon the market was very dull until within a few minutes of the close, when an attempt was made to bid the market up, which was not very successful, but the close was steady at the highest of the day. Liverpool tomorrow is expected to be rather better, owing to the receipts being higher than had been expected. The movement of receipts today is heavier than last year, but yet not so excessive as to create apprehension, and the covering movement which has set in among local traders is expected to hold the market steady for the balance of the week. The trade is as bearish as ever. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, August 30.—Cotton advanced 5 to 6 points, then receded and closed on 'change at a net rise for the day of 4 to 5 points with the tone steady, After 'change it was understood that business could have been done to 1 to 2 points above the closing official prices. Liverpool declined ½ to 1 point and then recovered part of this and closed steady. Spot sales 10,000 bales at unchanged prices. Bombay receipts for the week 4,000 bales, against 4,000 for the same time last year. It total since January 1st, 1,544,000, against 1,516,000 during the same time last year. New Orleans advanced 3 to 4 points. Galveston was weak. In Manchester yarns were quiet but steady; cloths sold to some extent at low prices. In most sections of the cotton bett the rainfall was light or moderate. The South Carolina state report on the condition of the cotton crop, just issued, says: "The diversity of soll and topography of the state makes it improbable that the same weather conditions of cotton at the present time exemplifies this very strikingly. Owing to the heavy rains of the past few weeks cotton on sandy soil is a poor crop; it continues to shed too freely and rust is developing very generally, while the plant growth has topped at scarcely any top crop. From this condition cotton grades up to as good fields as can be produced any time or anywhere, but taken altogether, the prospects fall considerably short of an average crop. Bolls are maturing and opening rapidly and licking will in a short time become general."

picking will in a short time become general."

The Georgia report for the week is in the main unfavorable. The market is not likely to take any decided position until the new crop movement is heavy, and then if the spot demand does not come to its support prices must drop to a lower level.

Today's features—Heavy rains in Texas and an unexpectedly steady market in Liverpool, some falling off in the receipts at the ports, unfavorable state report in South Carolina and Georgia, an advance in silver, activity in cotton goods, a report that the Fall River mills will start up again on September 10th, and some local southern and European buying caused an advance.

Riorian & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Riorian & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, August 30.—(Special.)—The crop accounts were less satisfactory today, there being too much rain, especially in Texas, and cotton both here and in Liverpool refused to decline further. Our opening was slightly higher. Just after the call the bears made a furious onslaught, hammering January from 6.80, the opening price, down to 6.77, the lowest price yet recorded, but there were eager buyers at the decline and the market quickly rallied 5 points. It continued firm throughout the day. The close was steady with 6.82 bid for January. The shorts were unmistakably uneasy and after the close were bidding 6.84 for January. The bears are still taking liberally of 6-cent cotton, but they don't want to sell and talk is not enough to depress the market. Present prices would seem to discount a big crop and as nobody seems disposed to sell, the chances are that we shall have some improvement. We may not yet have touched bottom, but at the moment we would rather buy than sell. Riorian & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Dry Goods.

Prom The Wall Street Journal.

This market is active and prices show a tendency to harden. The arrivals of hew buyers was the largest this season, but road men say that the distant interior trade has hardly started to buy yet. The purchase of solid packages characterizes the market, and stocks are suffering serious inroads, that with the restricted production of staple cottons, it may be difficult to replenish. Advices report that the retail trade in all sections is developing fast than the receipt of supplies can meet. Mail orders are exceptionally good, but spot business is the ruling factor today.

More attention was paid to brown cottons than ever, and as many manufacturers are indisposed to produce goods until the values realized conform to the cost of manufacture, there are good prospects of a stronger market. The advance in print cloths will necessarily create a sympathetic movement in the finished article.

Low grade woolens are active, but close. Special prices are too widely separated to form any opinion on the higher grades. Dress goods, ginghams, prints, etc., all shared in a freer movement at firm prices. shared in a freer movement at firm prices

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, August 30.—The opinion that "short" selling of wheat had been too popular during the past few weeks obtained in wheat today. Whether the modest advance scored today was a forerunner of what was to come, or whether it was only a natural rally, remains to be seen, but in any event the shorts are beginning to feel the necessity for caution. The bull argument now is the feeding of wheat, today's summary of the crop conditions for the past week in The Cincinnati Price Current giving prominence to this subject and noting the difficulty experienced by millers in the interior in securing supplies, owing to the tenacity with which wheat is held. The trade was without feature, unless the selling by holders of "calls" when a profit in their transactions was shown could be so called. This selling retarded the advance for a time, but finally the offerings were exhausted and prices made an additional gain. December wheat opened at 56%, sold between 56% and 57%, closing at 570574cc, %chigher than yesterday. Cash wheat was in good demand and %c higher.

Corn—The advices received by a banker of this city, from his correspondents in the states which have been victimized by the drought and which confirmed what had already been known, but which also went further and gave a worse condition in Nebraska and Kansas than had been suspected was the principal item of benefit to corn values today. The strength in wheat was of supplementary importance, however, aiding in the advance. May corn opened from 52% to 52%, sold between 52% and 52 closing at 52%/052%—%@c higher than yesterday. Cash corn was strong at ½c higher.

Oats—In addition to a sympathetic feeling between oats and other grain markets, the great difference in prices between oats and corn begins to attract attention and to be urged as a bull factor. Part of today's advance was directly due to this, although the session. May oats closed ½c higher than yesterday. Cash oats were strong and higher hand up to the close. CHICAGO, August 30.—The wheat market was barely steady at the opening. Foreign cables were lower, showing a ready response to our weakness yesterday. New York reports the bearish foreign houses selling. Reports have it that foreigners are fearful of a 170,000,000 bushel exportable surplus, old and new wheat, on this side which frightens buyers. Regardless of this local sentiment was rather bullish, intensified by buying by commission houses for outside account and prices gradually advanced, the early sellers inclined to cover on the strength displayed and Distilling and Cattle Feeding reached 57% before any reaction was experienced. There was some selling at the advance and prices receeded to 56% firmed up and closed at 57257%. Trade was not heavy at any time while the market was decidedly dull at times. Clearances were about 550,000 bushels of wheat and flour. From present indications we consider the outlook more favorable to holders. Corn—Although the predicted frost did not or me and cables were discouraging, there was a fairly good demand, unusually so for September and from the weak opening developed a strong market, the general tone of the news being buillish.

The Cincinnati Price Current says a general survey does not suggest any further depreciation in the condition of the corrept though many returns are more emphatically unfavorable. Offerings were light and the gain in prices was ½e for August and 1 cent for September. The clesing was firm at about the highest point of the day.

Chiengo Gossip. By private wire to J. C. Knox, manager Northwestern receipts of wheat in car lots: Minneapolis, 236, against 134 last year; Du-luth, 474, against 87 last year.

Corn fractionally lower on map showing no trace of frost; wheat fractionally lower. The Price Current is rather bullish, but cables are indifferent and northwestern receipts large.

The agricultural department has issued bulletin advocating the use of wheat for cood. It says that with corn and wheat at food. It says that with corn and wheat at the same price it is preferable to feed wheat and sell corn, because, first, wheat weighs 7 per cent more, and second, wheat weight for weight, is an equally good grain for fattening, and better for growing ani-

The Cincinnati Price Current says: "A general survey does not suggest further depreciation in the average condition of the corn crop, though many returns are more emphatically unfavorable, others are some-what less. Showers are affording limited benefit. Considerable areas are being cut for fodder only, while wheat is moving rather freely, it is being more tenaciously held and purchases in centers for feeding are enlarging. Milling requirements are less readily provided for."

Mr. Baldwin starts off with a pronounced evidence of his full capability of manag-ing a great railroad, and everybody is applauding his work of organization as set forth in the circular of yesterday.

If there is one strong point in the circular that stands out more conspicuously in praise of its author more than another, it is the seeming ease with which he attains an economic basis of work and at the same time a thorough and complete plan of operation such as will give the best possible

Naturally, this is the next step to be taken by the Southern, and it is a step that can easily be taken by virtue of the facflities acorded in the consolidation of links that form great through lines of railway spanning the entire south.

It is gratifying to the people of this section to know that the policy of the Southern Railway Company will be to put on wift trains running through the entire territory of the road, and to render the train service such as has never before been enjoyed by the traveling public of this re-

The work of speeding the trains on fiying schedules will not rest solely with the passenger department, but will extend through all the freight branches, and it is said that the intention of Mr. Baldwin is to make the fast freight schedules of both the eastern and western system faster than

From the people's standpoint the chief benefit of consolidation is the securing of improved schedules with through trains running between long distance points, and in this particular Mr. Baldwin in charge of the operating department of the Southern, will meet the expectations of the people fully.

Within a very short time it is believed the Southern will put on another ves-tibuled train out of Washington running through to Jacksonville, Fla., in order to fully accommodate the traffic this winter between the cold regions of the north and the sunny meadow lands of the the land

The trains on the regular schedules will be put through in even better time than they are now run, and the proper connections at Atlanta will enable the Southern to run through cars from the east to Macon in quicker time than the Atlantic Coast-Line is just now proposing to do by way of its new cut-off through Augusta.

Now that the work of organization of the departments has been so smoothly adjusted it is interesting to watch the improvements in general service the Southern is sure to give the south.

Captain Dodson Leaves Today. Captain John A. Dodson, recently made general roadmaster of the Southern, with eadquarters at Washington, will leave Headquarters at Washington office today for his new home.

He will take to the Washington office Chief Clerk Melton, who has been with him here in the office of division superintendent, and who is one of the most capable young railroad men in the south. Mr. Melton is a native South Carolinian, and was associated with Captain Dodson when the latter became superintendent of the old Richmond and Danville, with headquarters at Columbia.

Mr. Melton came from Columbia with Captain Dodson when he was promoted to the superintendency here. He is one of the most popular young railroaders here and is a leading member of the South Carolina Society of this city.

There is general and captular regret here.

There is general and genuine regret here at the departure of both Captain Dodson and Mr. Melton, for since they came to this city they have won friends on every side. Commissioner Stahlman Talks.

Commissioner Stahlman says some very nteresting things in an interview for The Railway Times, published in New York, about the railway situation in the south. Among other things, the commissioner

"There has been very great depression—very marked business stagnation in the south for two years and a half. I do not confine myself to railway business, but to all business. I ascribe it to general conditions. We were going very rapidly in the all business. I ascribe it to general conditions. We were going very rapidly in the south. Manufacturers met with a backset, but the worst has passed and we are beginning to pick up. I don't care to speak of tariff (sevice. Pellarotte arrighted). sinning to pick up. I don't care to speak of tariff issues. Railway earnings are better than a year ago and seem to be steadily improving, and I think that our business will show a steady improvement from now on. Nothing of a spasmodic nature, but a healthy condition of things. There is a restored confidence and an improved outlock. I do not think that the prosperous raily will be as speedy as the decline. It will be much more gradual, and will, therefore, be productive of sound ultimate refore, be productive of sound ultimate re-

"A new union depot is talked of at Atlanta, Ga. That city has become a railroad center of magnitude and metropolitan facilities are a necessity. Nearly a dozen roads reach Atlanta and others are aiming in that carection. The Atlanta exposition of next year will draw crowds and the citizens are anxious to have a handsome, large depot in which to receive them."

The car is to run over the new cut read of the coast line, which leads them by way of Denmark to the city of Augusta over the South Carolina road and thence to Macon over the already established route. The coast line is reaching out into the very heart of the south and will hereafter not be contented to simply get the Florida business.

Within the next few months the coast line will run a through car into Atlanta, too, and will have them sent over to Ala-bama by way of Macon.

Railway Short Lines. Superintendent Beauprie takes charge of his big division of the Southern tomorrow. Mr. D. W. The following from The Railway Times is interesting: "The utterances of the railway managers are much more favorable. They agree in saying that the demand for freight cars saying that the demand for freight cars is steadily increasing and they expect to see their rolling stock in full use within a month. No great gain in the passenger traffic is anticipated for the present, but as by far the larger portion of earnings comes from freight, it is that branch of business which is regarded with the closest attention. The increase in tonnage will be prominently reflected in net earnings, because from 20 to 30 per cent more business can be handled without any material addition to operating expenses. It may be said, probably, that the period of defaults and receivers is at an end.

The Quebec Convention. The following notice has been issued by Secretary A. J. Smith, of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents: "The thirty-ninth semi-annual meeting of this association will be held at Hotel Chauteau Frontenac, Quebec, Canada, at 11 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, September 18, 1894. The report presented by the commit-tee appointed to consider the question of differences of opinion as to the proper methods of apportionment to be applied in the division of passenger affairs has been pending for several meetings and should be disposed of at this one. The question with respect to the practice of some ticket agents in applying directly to connecting roads for relief on account of errors in the sale of through tickets, which was presented by Mr. A. E. Ford at the Harrogate meeting, has also been deferred several times. It is desired that members come prepared to dispose of this item of unfinished business.

"The committee appointed to formulate a report on the resolutions presented by Mr. Butterfield at the last meeting, which relate to certain changes in the orders for transportation issued by the United States government, has an important duty to perform, and all members should arrange to give such time as may be necessary to the consideration of its report. AN INJUNCTION ASKED FOR.

The Road in Question Is the Best Money Maker in Georgia.

Augusta, Ga., August 30.-(Special.)-Suit was filed by Augusta lawyers today in Washington county superior court which promises to be another Rowena Clark case on a somewhat smaller basis. Dr. H. N. Hollifield, one of the most prominent citi-zens of Washington county and a minority stockholder in the Wrightsville and Tennille railroad, through his attorneys Leonard Phinizv and J. R. Lamar, of Augusta, and Hardwick & Carter, of Sanders ville, filed a bill on the equity side of the court in behalf of himself and other minor ity stockholders of the Wrightsville and Tennille Railroad Company, vs. the Central Railroad and Banking Company and H. M. Comer and R. S Hayes, co-receivers of the Central railroad. It is alleged in the bill that the Central Railroad and Banking that the Central Railroad and Banking Company is the illegal owner of a majority of the stock of the Wrightsville and Tennille railroad in holding some 2,810 shares, a controlling interest.

Mr. Hollifield alleges that the property has been badly managed by virtue of the illegal ownership of the Central road of

has been badly managed by virtue of the illegal ownership of the Central road of a majority of stock, and that the Wrights-ville and Tennille road has been run solely and entirely in the interest of the Central raliroad; and that the president and board of directors of the Wrightsville and Tennille road have discriminated in the Central's favor against other roads. The bill closes with a prayer asking that the Wrightsville and Tennille road be restrained and enjoined from allowing the Central, in the future, to vote its majority stock in the annual elections for president and directors. It is also asked that the ownership of the Central's majority stock be declared illegal and void, and that it be ordered sold, and that the Wrightsville and Tennille road be enjoined in the future from discriminating against other railroads in favor of the Central. The Wrightsville and Tennille road is thirty-five miles long, runs from Tennille to Dublin, and is one of the best paying pleces of property in the state.

Will Finish the Road. Birmingham, Ala., August 30.-(Special.)-

Receiver E. A. Hopkins, of the Birming ham, Sheffield and Tennessee River rail-way, has returned from London, where he has been making arrangements with the owners for the further extension of the road. The road will first be extended from the present terminus, Jasper, to Lillie Shoals, on the Warrior river.

Captain John S. Foster and a corps of engineers went to work this morning sur-veying a line from Jasper to Lillie Shoals.

Judge Westmereland Opened It and Didn't Have a Pair Either.

HE CALLED AND BROWN LAID DOWN

The Game Cost Mr. Brown $700, and He Swears He Will Never Ass n Bet So Much as a Nickel on a straight-

Forty packs of carle, a half-bushel of poker chips and a tamout box were among the gambling assets of Will'am Brown, said to be a professional card player, which were displayed in the city courtroom yesterday morning. The eyes of the jury and assembled spectators in the courtroom grew large with astonishment at the volume of gaming utensils. Judge Westmoreland himself was rather astounded at the revelation and glared at them with a look of puzzled curiosity. It was one of the largest hauls he had ever witnessed and his surprise and astonishment were unbounded.

Two charges were preferred against Brown, one for running a gambling house and the other one for gaming. To both of these he plead guilty.

Judge Westmoreland thereupon passed sentence on the prisoner, requiring him to pay a fine of $500 for running a gambling house and $200 for gaming, making a total

He has not yet made up this sum, but the probability is he will pay the full amount of the fine today.

He Turns Over a New Leaf. Before the sentence was passed by Judge Westmoreland an affidavit, in behalf of the risoner, was read by his attorney, Mr.

J. W. Austin. In this affidavit he avowed his intention to turn over a new leaf in his diary. He stated that he came from DeKalb county and that for a number of years he had been in the habit of playing cards. He acknowledged that he was the owner of a private gaming house on Loyd street, but denied that he was guilty of any deliberate intention to violate the law. He thought, since he carried on the business privately, that no penalty was thereby incurred. He exonerated the detectives from all charges which were laid at their door and declared that he knew nothing against the character or methods of the detective force of this

The affidavit was strong and well written The Detectives Exonerated.

As soon as Mr. Austin had finished reading the affidavit Solicitor Thomas arose to his feet and asked for the privilege of asking Mr. Brown a few supplementary ques-The court readily consented and the solici-

Thomas. "Never." was the reply.

"Did you ever hear of any one else who made such an offer?" "I never did."

This appeared to satisfy the solicitor and he resumed his seat. In certain charges made against the detectives a few months ago it was stated that Brown was in pos-session of facts by which the guilt of the detectives in accepting bribes could be established. His disclosures from the witness stand yesterday morning throw important light on the situation.

tant light on the situation.

Judge Westmoreland, in passing sentence, stated that he had nothing to do with the charges of bribery against the detectives, but he well understood how officers who did their duty would be abused and vilified. Since a piea of guilty had been filed by the prisoner he would be aglenient as possible, and instead of sending him up for a year, as he was disposed to do, he would impose a fine of $500 on him for keeping a gaming house and $200 for gaming. Court Has Adjourned.

A number of jail cases were tried before Judge Westmoreland yesterday morning, after which the city court adjourned until next Monday morning.

The civil branch of the court will also convene at that time, Judge Van Epps presiding.

"We reached Washington in fine time and by 10 o'clock of the same morning, which was Monday, the Georgia knights had se-cured tents, disposed of their baggage and were out seeing the sights. Nearly all of che knights from Georgia were eating pea-nuts and indulging in red lemonade. "REDUCED PRICES."

Some of the clothing stores advertise "reduced?" prices. Their "reduction?" in some cases bring them almost to a level with our standard rates for standard clothes. To our thinking the best way to get things right is to find a "right store" and stick to it. A dealer gets to know your wants often better than yourself, and a wise dealer keeps the BEST; "right" clothes, at "right" prices, year after year. The same is true of Hats and Furnishings. There are hundreds of men in and around Atlanta that do not trade at our store---we'd like to see that hundred though.

A SILVER LANTERN. THE OFFICIAL

Most Popular Conductor in Georgia.

PAWNSHOP NOW

A Negro Pawned It in a Shop on Decatu for Fifty Cents-When Harry Was a Gay onductor.

A handsome token of admiration and popularity, presented to Harry Hill in those rare days gone by when he was a dandy conductor, riding on the topmost wave of fortune and prosperity, is to be offered upon the altar of a Decatur street pawnbroker. It is a striking reminder of the tragic contrast between the careless, happy days of the young man's earlier years and his present plight, and recalls with dramatic distinctness the time when he was in the foremost of the push.

A dandler conductor than he never brought a train into the union depot. His bright uniform was always speckless and neat and the sparkle of diamonds added the proper accent to his apparel. The porters always tipped their caps and the passengers always smiled as he passed.

In those days the world smiled on the dashing young conductor. He was handsome, polite and clever. He gave to his work the tone of swelldom, and no conductor had more friends and admirers than he. The ladies liked to ride on his train and he had many friends who would ride

At each end of the line Harry kept a At eard end of the line like as a favorite recreation of his to go out afternoons behind his spanking teams. And the young man was a frequent guest at many of the swellest social affairs.

Was it any wonder, then, that at this period of his career he should be voted a magnificent silver lantern as the most ular conductor in the state.

It was in 1885 that a fair was given at Centennial hall for some charitable purpose. It was an extensive affair and every night for a couple of weeks the hall was crowded with the best people of the city. One of the attractions was a voting con-test for the most popular conductor coming into Atlanta. From the start Harry Hill was prominent in the race and his friends flocked to the hall by the score to put in a ballot for him. The race became exciting and all Atlanta took an interest in it. The result of it was that Harry won it, and received the handsome prize of a

The lantern was a beauty. The handle and frame of the lantern were of ornamental silver, and appropriately inscribed with the name of the givers, and an appropriate sentiment. During the latter days of his railroad career it was Harry Hill's special pride to carry this lantern on his night runs, and it frequently was the subject of admiring comment from his

Yesterday that lantern was pawned in a Decatur street pawnshop, and the consideration for which it was pawned was a half dollar. By devious and unaccounta-ble ways it found its way to this place no one knows how.

It was carried to a pawnshop at 146 Decatur street by a negro and offered for a balf dollar. An ordinary yellow pawn tick-et was given in return for it and the handsome lantern took its place among the mass of curious articles in the place. Like its former owner it had met with dverse fates. Where it has been since it left the hands of Harry, and how it came into the hands of the negro who pawned it, are questions had to answer. Both Har-ry and his lantern we in hard luck.

IT IS BADLY NEEDED.

If a New Jail Is Not Erected It May Cause a Great Loss to the County. The action of the county commissioners in calling for a bond election to vote the issuing of $150,000 worth of bonds to erect a new jail in this county, has met with general approval.

"If a new jail is not elected," said Sheriff Barnes yesterday afternoon, "it will be a great misfortune, for we need it badly The present jail is too small to accommodate the rapidly increasing number of pris oners and it frequently happens that every cell in the jail is crowded. We need a large and secure building and one that will be a protection to the law instead of a constant worry on account of the apprehended es-cape of prisoners from custody."

The election has been set for the 3d day of next October and the probability is that a majority of the voters of the county will be in line with the general desire to put up a safe, secure building, and one that will guard the prisoners of the law beyond the possibility of escape.

When the last election was called a vote was taken on the building of a new jail, an extension to the courthouse and a reformatory prison, and the sum of $600,000 was asked. TWO MURDER TRIALS.

They Will Be Heard Before Judge Hunt at Forsyth This Week.

Two murder trials are to be tried in For-Two murder trials are to be tried in Forsyth this week before Judge Hunt.
Hon. Tom Cabaniss is to defend one of them and Judge Williamson the other. The first of the trials is that of George Doyal, who killed a desperate fellow named Gowens last year. The killing was done at a picnic and several of Doyal's friends were implicated. It is said that Gowens was a very desperate man and was feared throughout the county, and it is also claimed that Doyal and his friends determined to see to it that they were not termined to see to it that they were not run over by him at this particular picnic. A row.occurred during the day and Gowens was killed. Doyal has a brother on the Atlanta police force.

The second trial is that of Dixle Ross.
who, three weeks ago, killed his father-inlaw, James Gibson. The killing occurred at an election precinct on the day of the county primary. It is said that Ross ran away with and married a daughter of Gibson's about two years ago, and the feeling away with and married a daughter of Gib-son's about two years ago, and the feeling between the two men has never been good since. It is further charged that a few days prior to the killing Ross made insult-ing remarks to a younger daughter of Gib-son's, and so stated to Gibson on election day. There was a blow or two and before bystanders could interfere Ross had killed Gibson.

HIS OWN FAULT.

Judge Perkerson Decides That the Railroad Was Not to Blame. On August 2d Sam Schwamm, a Russian peddier, was driving across the railroad at the Loyd street crossing when his wagon was struck by a freight train on the tracks of the Southern Railway Company. It Was Presented to Harry Hill as the | For the Meeting of the City Executive Committee Has Been Issued.

THE MEETING IS TOMORROW NIGHT

And the Indications Are That It Will Be Warm Meeting from the Start, but That It Will Be Short.

About the only thing the ward politicians had to talk about yesterday was the coming meeting of the city executive committee at the county courthouse tomor row night. Those who discussed the question were all of the spinion that the meeting would postpone the date of the primary from the 28th of this month to the 3d of next the satisfaction of all except the candidates for the various positions. All of these are anxious to have the election over, as extention of time means more hard work for them. They are not inclined to make the campaign a long one, and want the city executive committee to leave the date of the election right where it is.

But the city executive committee will more than likely disregard the wishes of the candidates and change the date.

Captain W. D. Ellis, chairman of the city executive committee, has prepared his call, which appeared in The Constitution yesterday morning, and that call reads; yesterday morning, and that call reads:

"Atlanta, Ga., August 30.—City Executive Committee: A majority of the executive committee having so requested, a call is hereby made for a meeting to be held at the courthouse on Saturnay night at 8 o'clock. This meeting is for the purpose of considering the advisability of changing the date for holding the election from the 28th day of September to October 3d.

"At this meeting the subcommittee of one from each ward, which the chairman was authorized to appoint, and whose duty it will be to arrange for holding the election, will be announced by the chairman.

"The attendance of every member of the executive committee is respectfully requested.

www. D. ELLIS, Chairman."
Neither among the candidates for councilmen nor the candidates for city offices were there any changes yesterday.

The combinations among these gentlemen appeared to be about fixed, and unless some change comes soon there will be little in-formation to derive from the race. There are indications, however, that a number of the candidates for the various places will form a combination within the next few days and that there will be out tickets of two varieties, one containing candidates who have banded together fo the places as opposed to candidates banded together for the same places.

For City Clerk

Mr. Charles A. Collier offers the following card for publication:
"To the voters of Atlanta—My brother, Mr. John W. Collier, is a candidate for cle.k of council at the approaching city primary election. He is entirely competent, primary election. He is entirely competent, nonest and familiar with the affairs of the office. My own duties in connection with the exposition render it impossible for me to see my friends personally in his behalf, and I take this means of soliciting their support and influence for bim. He will appreciate it, and I will deem it a personal favor, which I will be glad to reciprocate snould occasion offer. Very truly yours, "C. A. COLLIER."

WILL BREAK RECORDS.

It Will Be a Great Gathering of Wheelmen at the Park Wednesday.

The event par excellence in cycling circles will be the races next Wednesday at Piedmont park for the benefit of the woman's department of the exposition. The riders that will take part are all well-known, and they will spare no attempts at breaking the track record for the state. A rull list of the many entries is not obtaina-ble as yet, but on Monday it will be prifited. It is needless to say that Atlanta's talent will be on the field and every number will be hotly contested.

There will be a mile novice race, a quarter-mile open, a mile open, a two-mile open, a half-mile match, a mile match, relay races, races between horses and cyclists. One of the most interesting events of the day will be a mile race between riders mount-ed on the ordinary, or high wheel. These wheels have not been ridden for such a long period that many look forward to

There are fourteen different events, and among them is a race that will begin at the Aragon hotel and end at the grounds.

After an exhaustive argument of the merits of the motion, Judge Clark granted the

Yesterday morning Carter was brought out of the little red jall and carried into court by Sheriff Austin. He was represented by two attorneys. All the witnesses were present and ready to go into the graphic details of the murder.

At the outset of the trial Solicitor Candler announced that it had been agreed to accept a plea of voluntary manslaughter from Carter without entering further into the case. This was agreed to and Judge Griggs announced that he would give Carter fifteen years in the pen for the crime.

This was evidently a longer term than the murderer had expected and arose to make a talk in his own behalf. He said he wanted to tell how the affair happened.

Finance Committee of the Alliance.

HIS OFFICE WAS AN IMPORTANT ONE

But It Is Thought That He Did Not Like the Dominance of Populism in the Alliance—Bis Letter.

Hon. Felix Corput has resigned his posion as chairman of the finance committee state ulliance and his action is re garded as having a strong significance. One or two allusions in his letter of resnation, sent to President Irwin, indicate his real reasons for withdrawal, even when viewed apart from his democratic affiliations. Evidently Mr. Corput realizes how completely the alliance—what is left of it— has fallen into the hands of the populists, and this has been a strong reason in bringing about his withdrawal. Mr. Corput held, perhaps, the most important position in the alliance just at this time-a position, as he says, of absolute control. He has recinquished his position immediately after the state convention of the alliance—a meeting which he attended, and at which he had the distinction of being the only democrat present.

In alliance circles his resignation was not a surprise. He has been one of the strongest and ablest men ever connected with the alliance and has done a great deal to further its interests. When it was first organized in Georgia he became a member and has steadily been connected with it, always in a position of prominence and responsibility. He did not approve of the way things went at the Dublin meeting, and saw with great regret the big falling off in the alliance representation. His letter of resignation is as follows:

"Hon. M. D. Irwin, President State Farmers' Alliance, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir and Brother: I find that the condition of the alliance is such that it will take much of the time of the chairman of the finance committee—which might be considered a committee of absolute control—to bring about that rehabilitation of the alliance which is so much desired by all alliancemen who still adhere to the original principles of the order.

which is so much desired by all alliancemen who still adhere to the original principles of the order.

"Much more time will have to be given the order by the chairman than I can possibly devote to it. I, therefore, feel unwillingly constrained to tender my resignation, both as chairman and as a member of the finance committee, and beg that you accept the same, to take effect on the 1st day of September, or as soon thereafter as you can select a suitable person to fill the vacancy.

"In resigning from the committee I do not want to be understood as withdrawing from active work in the alliance, but, to the contrary, tender you my services at any and all times, to work whenever you think I can be of benefit to the order and can assist in making your administration a success.

ccess.
"The alliance, outside of political dolnion, will always find a ready champion me. With best wishes personally and r your administration I remain fraternalyours, FELIX CORPUT." President Irwin replied to this letter in a courteous manner, expressing regret Mr. Corput had determined to sever his connection with the alliance, and say-ing that he would take advantage of his offer and call on him for aid in the future. The alliance officers are badly put out by Mr. Corput's resignation and realize that it will be hard to fill his place. He is an able financier, as has been evidenced by his splendid management of his own affairs, and naturally the officials of the alliance were desirous of keeping him in the order. They are not inclined to talk President Irwin, of the alliance, has just been nominated as the populist candidate for state senator in the twenty-seventh district, and will oppose Mr. W. H. Mortor of Athens, for that position. He says he will make an active canvass for the position and will make speeches all over the rialy changed since Wednesday night. There are still two areas of low and one of high pressure upon the weather chart. The two former are central over the northeast and west, while the high remains stationary west, while the high remains stationary over the northeast, although it has decreased somewhat in energy. As the barometer in this section has been falling, the temperature has been rising, and, as the barometer is likely to continue to fall, together with the warm weather advancing from the west, the temperature in Atlanta and vicinity will probably grow a little warmer and remain so for a few days. The weather at 7 o'clock last night was generally cloudy in the southeast and southwest, while in the northeast and northwest it was clear. Scattered rains fell during yesterday at stations situated in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana. For Georgia today: Fair.

HID HIS WOUND.

Judge Hillyer Returns from the Ma- | Resigns His Position as Chairman of the | A Negro Shot Some Time Ago Taken to the Grady Hospital Yesterday.

> SOME MYSTERY ABOUT THE AFFAIR John Carr Goes to Jail This Morning Without Preliminary Hearing-How Cap-tain Thompson Was Fooled.

A negro about whom some mystery hangs room on Decatur street last Wednesday afternoon to the Grady hospital.

A telephone call for the ambulance said that a man had been shot on Decatur street, and as soon as possible, with Dr. Little in charge, the vehicle made its way to the place. There was no excitement round, and nothing gave any evidence of the fact that a shooting scrape had occurred. The ambulance was on the point of returning when some one said that a negro man, very badly wounded was lying in the cellar under the store.

The doctor went down at once and foun a man who gave his name as John Pitts, suffering from several wounds in the right leg. He was stretched out on a blanket on the ground and was in a critical condition from exposure and the loss of blood. About the cause of his condition the negro was unable to give any satisfactory statement, and before being taken up told several contradictory tales.

At first he said that he had been shot in Saturday night at Lithonia and came into Atlanta that day for the purpose of having his wounds dressed. There was a general row he said and some one fire into the crowd striking him twice. According to this statement he was informed that it would be impossible to take him into the hospital. He changed his tale and declared and said that he was a resident of this place. He could give no circumstances about the shooting. Late in the afternoon he was taken to the hospital. The first of last week the store of Grocer Holmes, on Edgewood avenue, was burg-iarized and Mr. Haines, the young man who sleeps at the place, caught sight of a man jumping from the window. He fired twice with a shotgun, loaded with small shot striking the man, as shown by the gore he left behind. The burglar nevertheless escaped and since ther nothing has ever been heard from him. It is thought by the officers that the negro carried to the hospital yesterday is the man who was shot by Haines. The detectives will take charge of Haines. The detectives the case this morning.

Laugh on the Captain. Captain Thompson, of the police force, is naturally of a very jolly disposition, and invariably wears a broad smile. Yesterday there was a deep frown on his countenance. and it was noticeable that the captain re-mained in his office during the day. The cause of his change of humor was a negro woman who will be tried before Judge Cal-houn this afternoon for gaming. She is connected with the crowd which was arrested last Sunday afternoon, and was brought into the station house on that charge Tuesday night. On the way she preserved a solemn silence and upon her arrival at the police station her lips were tightly

Captain Thompson wished to know he name, but to all appearances the woman was dumb. She motioned with her hands and went through a graphic pantomime. Captain Thompson decided that as a mute the woman did not answer the description and ordered her release.

Yesterday afternoon she was brought into police station again, when a charge of quarreling and using profane language was entered against her.

AT THE GRAND.

If Bobby Gaylor is funny 90 per cent of the large audience at the Grand last night failed to discover it. Bobby may—and probably-will think the audience was at fault Gaylor has been seen here before. Last summer he went to England to do a turn in some of the music halls. He is under he management of W. A. Brady, and Mr. Brady has a corps of enterprising press agents who succeeded very well in their efforts to make the people on this side of the water believe that Gaylor had divided the honors with Bernhardt and Ada Rehan, completely capturing old "Lunnon" his inimitable wit. One paper contained a line to the effect that somebody was "the funniest Irishman London ever saw," and as this line is liberally used in Gaylor's advertisements, it is safe to presume that he is meant. It may be that the writer reflected the sentiment of all London. If soone of two things: Either London has been suffering from a remarkable dearth of Irish comedians or Londoners, beve de-Irish comedians or Londoners have de-cidedly curious ideas of what a "funny Irishman" is.

Perhaps "Sport McAllister" doesn't give Gaylor the same scope that the music hall sketch did. He is not funny as Sport, and couldn't make an impression on his audience, though he did try conscientiously and hard. However, some of his business didn't begin to go for what it was worth. He has a clever knack at telling a story, but the acceleration to the story. but time and again the lines, really bright as they are, escaped the audience. None of his songs are particularly catchy. A bit of a dance was well done, but nothing else he did was worthy of note. The straight comedy of the play proper fell straight comedy of the play proper fell far below the mark.

The supporting company is, as a whole, mediocre. Several of the songs are new, but none of them were well sung. Miss Warren's dancing and high kicking and a banjo bit by Miss Burns caught the gallery. By all odds the best specialty was that by Gilbert and Goldie, who did some good business and caught the crowd.

There were no living pictures, as advertised. It was explained that it had been found impossible to make them work well and the management decided to abandon them rather than make a failure.

WORKING A REVOLUTION.

That is What The New Artificially Digested Food Is Doing,

A REMARKABLE ADVANCE

It Is Now Possible to Give the Sto mach a Vacation Because the Food Is Digested Before Being Esten.

Paskola works wonders!

The great pre-digested food that makes people well is winning more praises by reason of what it has done for dyspeptic sufferers than any other preparation of-fered to the public.

A person who suffers from this distressing complaint usually feels a gnawing at the stomach, an "all gone" feeling, as if suffering for want of food. There is a bad taste in the mouth, a coated tongue, gas rises from the stomach and sometimes there is sickness with a constant headache. When people lose flesh they generally begin to feel alarmed. They want to regain begin to feel alarmeet. They want to regain what they have lost. Sometimes they are unfortunate enough to take cod liver oil for that purpose. The effect of cod liver oil taken into a weak, disordered stomach is to make dyspepsia worse. Cod liver oil will sicken a well person. Imagine its effects on a dyspeptic sufferer with a weak stomach!

But modern science has happily put an end to all this. People are rapidly finding out that the way to cure dyspepsia is not to make it worse. They are discovering that the best way to get flesh is to digest their food properly, and that when their ood is well digested they do not suffer from dyspepsia.

Paskola cure dyspepsia, it makes sound, healthy flesh because it is not a medicine, but a food. Drugs cannot make thin people fat or cure dyspeptics of their dyspepsia.

When it is taken it enters at once into the tissues of the body, giving instant nourishment. It permits the stomach to take a rest and get into a better condi-to take a rest and get into a better condition.

Paskola is pleasant to the taste and agreeable to the most sensitive stomach. It has no nauseating or blording effects, but tones up the whole body and creates a healthy appetite. It drives away all bilious sensations and enables every particle of ordinary food to be perfectly digested.

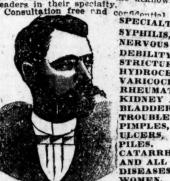

Paskola may be bought of any reputable druggist. An interesting pamphlet on food and digestion will be mailed free on application to the Pre-digested Food Co., 30 Reade St., New York.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times men and women call on their ramily physicians, suffering, as they magine, one from dyspersia; another from heart disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present, alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some delicate or private disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause c suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and sunsequent compilations. A proper treatment given and directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, threby dispelling all those distressing symptoms and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

DR. HATHAWAY & CO., who make a true and genuise specular to men and women explain their remarkable success to this fact. They study each case thoroughly and direct their treatment to the cause, temove that and make permanent cures. This enables them to ture where others have failed. They are the acknowledged seaders in their specialty.

EXAMINED TODAY.

The Applicants for Seats in the Boys' and Girls' High Schools.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL CLOSES AT NOON

The Committee on Teachers Will Announce the Supply of Vacancies
Today at 11 O'Clock.

The examination of applicants for admission into the Boys' and Girls' High schools will begin this morning at 9 o'clock. Each school will conduct its own examination, the Girls' High school at its building on Mitchell street, and the Boys' High screel at its building in the rear of the Equitable, on Edgewood avenue.

These pupils who have been promoted from the grammar schools will not be required to stand the examination. They will report at the two high schools on Monday morning and be assigned to the seats to which they are properly entitled. New applicants, however, must stand the examination before they can be admitted This is to insure a uniform grade and the law must be rigidly enforced. Pupils from the grammar schools who have failed of promoiton by rason of their deficiency in one or more particular studies may be examined in those studies this morning, and if they show the requisite amount of krowledge they will be allowed to enter the

The examination at the Girls' school will be in charge of Miss Nettle Sergeant, and the examination at the Boys' High school will be under the direction of Professor W. F. Slaton.

In the grammar schools the examinations will be conducted next Monday morning. Last of the Normal School. The normal institute which has been in session during the week will adjourn today

Much good has been accomplished by the institute, and the sessions have been full of interest to all who have attended. The first regular meeting of the weekly normal class will be held on the second Saturday in September.

The committee on teachers will announce the names of those who will supply the vacancles which have recently occurred in the school.

Mrs. DeJarnette sent in her resignation yesterday, and a teacher must be named to succeed her, and also to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Harvey. From the present indications the schools will be crowded next Monday morning, and the session will be one of the most successful of Atlanta's public school history.

ON A SPECIAL CAR.

Railway Postal Clerks Will Travel to Their Convention in Style.

A score of delegates, representing the fourth division, will leave Sunday on a special car for Cincinnati, where the annual convention of the Association of Railway Postal Clerks will occur on the 4th of next month.

When the delegates to the convention as emble there will be no less than 300 present, as nearly every one of those elected to represent the various divisions are able to be present. It is said by the railway postal clerks that the convention of this year will be the largest yet, and that matters of no small interest are expected to develop during the deliberations of the body.

It is understood that there will be an effort made to bring the association meeting south text year, and if this is done it will simply be another help to the exposition. In fact, it is the Cotton States and International exposition that will make the most potent argument for a meeting south of Mason and Dixon's line. It has, however, been the custom of the association to meet in September always, and as the exposition does not open until October, in this direction does the difficulty alone lie. The association is very much on the or der of an insurance company, its member-ship being limited to postal clerks. Upon the death of a member the assessment is levied and $2,000 is paid to his family or nearest relatives upon proof of his death. The payments are usually made within ten days after the necessary documentary evidence of death is received. There are about 2,400 members and all of them realize the importance of the organization and there-fore take a deep interest in everything that concerns it. To the meetings there are usually attached a number of social features and the delegates do not find it all work and no play.

Among the presidents of the association there has been an Atlanta man—H. M. Robinson. He was elected at a meeting in Montreal two years ago and served with signal ability at the head of the organization, which is one of the largest in the country. The present vice president is a southern man. He will reach here Sunday morning and leave with the delegates on their special car. J. J. Powell, of New Or-leans, is the man who was honored with the vice presidency. Another officer of the association will leave with the delegates. It is Mr. W. R. Tyler, of Barnesville, who is a member of the board of directors.

Who the Delegates Are. It will be a jolly party that leaves here on Sunday, and the trip will be an unusual-ly pleasant one to all. While the postal clerk is an individual who is thoroughly accustomed to riding on trains, it is not very frequently that he has a Pullman berth at his service.

The delegates selected at the last meeting

The delegates selected at the last meeting of the fourth division are:

D. A. Small, D. W. Duncan, J. A. Manget, Paul Hearn, S. S. Landers, S. W. Brown, George K. Keady, W. T. Baptiste, J. W. McCondy, J. A. Clandy and C. W. Green.

Delegate C. W. Green was married this week to one of the most charming of Savannah's young ladies, and his bride will accompany him on the trip.

It was the hour of midnight Tuesday night. Justice Orr was sleeping and there came ta tap, tap, tap at his chamber door. It was Mr. Tony Burch, the manager of McCarver's minstrels and H. D. McLaughlin, one of the funniest end men in the business

It was not a joke they had to tell the

There were negotiations of peace, Mr. McCarver paid up the bill, made things satisfactory with Burch and McLaughlin and

UNION CAMP MEETING.

Has Just Been Held.

Has Just Been Held.

For the eleventh time Union encampment has been enlivened by a throng of worshipers moving into camp, and the forests have resounded with the sermons of eloquent preachers.

Union encampment was organized eleven years ago by the Methodist Protegant church, and situated in the northwestern part of Carroll county, ten miles from Carrollton, and nine miles from Bowdon. The first session was held in a brush arbor, and there were but few tents on the ground. After the first session the community and the people of the surrounding country became so interested that contributions were taken, a large plat of land purchased and a substantial wood arbor and booths were erected filling three sides of the square on which the arbor stands. The late session was the most interesting yet held. Among the excellent sermons were those by Rev. T. H. M. Henderson, of Bowdon; Rev. R. S. McGarrity, of Jefferson, and Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Douglasville; Rev. Mr. Robbins, of Atlants; Rev. Mr. Bramfett, of Mount Zion, and Rev. Mr. Causey, of Victory.
